FIRST EDITION

A PREFACE, as a rule, contains the writer's apology for the appearance of his book. Such hardly seems necessary in the present instance. But it will be convenient to place upon record the various sources of information from which the materials of this work are drawn.

The main evidence for the entries given in the Register proper was afforded by a continuous series of School lists from the year 1835 to the present time. These were from 1835 (possibly from an earlier date) to 1850 printed annually in December. For entries during the years 1850-4 I had to rely upon the manuscript lists in Dr Harper's Daily Absence Book. Printed lists, published half-yearly for the period 1854-80, were kindly lent me by the Rev. H. P. Price. Since 1872 a School Register has been carefully kept, giving the name and age of each boy and his parents' or guardian's address. For permission to make use of this and other records in their custody my best thanks are due to the late and present Headmasters of the School.

The School lists, of course, give only the surname of each boy, and it was here, in assigning an identity to each name, that my real difficulty lay. But the task was rendered easier by the kindness of former Housemasters, who allowed me to make use of their private Boarders' lists. My thanks are specially due in this connection to Dr Harper, Mr A. M. Curteis, and the Rev. I. W. Tancock.

I also derived much help from Dr Lyon's Boarders' list (1823-45) sent me by the Rev. O. W. Tancock, and from some Examination lists (1830-3) in the possession of the Rev. James Penny. The Register of Foundationers would have been found more useful, had it been more accurately compiled.

To Mr W. B. Wildman I owe a deep debt of gratitude for the valuable assistance he has rendered me in the preparation of my book. No one was better qualified than he to write the chapter on the School Buildings, and much too of the interesting matter in the notices of Headmasters is due to his research. The notes on Housemasters are based upon information kindly given me by the Rev. A. Wood.'

In addition to those already mentioned, I would also take this opportunity of thanking a large number of Old Shirburnians for information given respecting themselves and their schoolfellows, more particularly Mr M. H. Green, for a University Honours list (kindly copied for me by Mr H. E. A. Cotton), and Mr H. T.

Twynam for several books containing the addresses of Old Shirburnians. My thanks must also be accorded to my friends, Mr H. R. King and Mr L. S. Milward, for help rendered in revising the proof-sheets, and to my sister for compiling the Index.

In the entries of the Register I have endeavoured to maintain as much uniformity as was possible in a work of this kind. The chief distinctions, intellectual and athletic, of school life have been given, and, where such could be ascertained with certainty, the date of leaving. In the case of members of a University, the M.A. degree has not been noted.

Despite constant revision during the five years since this work was commenced, I cannot but be conscious of many errors, both of commission and omission. Where such are discovered, I should welcome corrections or additions, in case a second edition should ever be called for.

SECOND EDITION

IN relinquishing the work entrusted to me by the Old Shirburnian Society, I gratefully acknowledge my indebtedness to Mr W. B. Wildman, who has revised and enlarged the Historical Introduction and rendered material aid in several of the Appendices ; and to many Old Shirburnians and others, notably Mr H. R. King, Mr M. H. Green, Mr H. E. A. Cotton, and the Rev. J. Penny.

The consciences of some Old Shirburnians, however, will accuse them should they ever consider the assistance they might have given in the rectification of the Register, and yet, in not a few cases, they did not even trouble to correct their own records.

THIRD EDITION

Books such as this are naturally composite productions, and thanks are due to very many, though they cannot all be named. In the place of honour comes the founder of our Register and its original Editor, Mr H. H. House. Perhaps only those of an older generation can fully appreciate the faith and love which inspired him nearly fifty years ago, when the School was in the trough of the waves, to compile that first edition of which the present one is only a n!chauffe with additions. It was with great reluctance, and not without his kind consent, that I found myself compelled by lack of space to condense some of his entries and to omit the text of the Charter and a somewhat longer list of benefactors. He has added to the debt we owe him by serving on the Committee of this edition and by working through the records of all his contemporaries. Sherborne cannot thank him too warmly.

The rest of the Committee have all given their advice and much practical help as well. Mr T. C. Rogerson, the second editor, has allowed me to use his invaluable annotated copy of the old book ; Mr G. O'Hanlon has continued Mr Wildman's story of the School buildings, and no one could have done it more delightfully ; Mr Jeston Homfray has compiled the Index and has run to earth many missing Old Shirburnians in his neighbourhood ; Brigadier A. H. Moberly has checked innumerable entries of soldiers ; and in the later stages we have had the expert guidance of Mr R. J. L. Kingsford in the actual publication of the book.

To the Headmaster, the Bursar and the Clerk to the Governors I am indebted for permission to use local School records : and I could not have attempted the work if I had not been able to rely on the continual assistance of the Rev. Arthur Field, the Hon. Secretary of the Old Shirburnian Society. Housemasters and other Masters, either still at Sherborne or retired, have helped in countless ways and have been wonderfully patient under provocation ; and I should like especially to thank Mr and Mrs Nowell Smith not only for the information they have supplied but for their unceasing interest and encouragement.

Among the many Old Shirburnians who have helped I am particularly grateful to Field Marshal Sir Claud Jacob, who generously spent laborious hours at the War Office in unearthing the records of lost soldiers : others who have given similar help are Major-General A. leG. Jacob and Surgeon Rear-Admiral B. P. Pick. Among other senior Old Shirburnians to whom thanks are due are Sir Verney Lovett, Dr G. E. Twynam, the Rev. W. C.

Penney, Mr G. H. Bent, and the senior of them all, Mr H. St B. Goldsmith. Then there are Old Shirburnian correspondents abroad who have given news of Shirburnians in their various countries-Archdeacon J. A. Lush in New Zealand, Mr S. H. Mitchell in Canada, Mr A. Cooper in India, Mr de Courcy Millar in Ireland, and others all over the world.

May I gratefully record also the debt I owe to Mr E. A. Crutchley of the Cambridge University Press and to his staff for the patience and care with which they have endeavoured to put my untidy copy into proper form. In the correction of proofs it has been very pleasant to have help from several present Shirburnians and former pupils.

Finally let me apologize for the annoyance my inquisitiveness must have caused. Correspondents on the whole have been kind and polite, but occasionally one could read between the lines of their letters that some of them thought the whole thing an intolerable nuisance and the book not worth the trouble of producing. In moments of despondency I have sometimes almost shared their views, but that is not my considered opinion. Public Schools have their detractors and are on their trial, but I am confident that they have still an important part to play if they will only play it ; and to those who love Sherborne, knowledge of her past should be an incentive rather than a deterrent.

Old Shirburnians will doubtless find many errors and omissions : I hope that they will not hesitate to report them-but not to me. The Hon. Secretary of the Old Shirburnian Society has kindly undertaken to file all corrections sent to him for the benefit of the next Editor. Let us hope that a man will be found ready and competent to produce a better edition, or at any rate a supplement, in time for the celebration of the Fourth Centenary of King Edward's Foundation in 1950.

PREFACE

FOURTH EDITION

IF justification for the publication of a new edition of the Sherborne Register be needed it may be found in the final sentence of the preface to the Third Edition. There, with the forethought which was so characteristic of him, the Editor expresses the hope that there would be a new edition to mark the Fourth Centenary of King Edward's Foundation. To produce a book of this kind—a book which may be used for reference in matters of moment, to help pass an idle hour, or to revive past memories, is not a task to be undertaken lightly; but W. J. Bensly's hope and this year's celebration provide sufficient incentives. And here, perhaps, one or two personal thoughts may be allowed. In the long months of preparation of the book the present Editor has never ceased to wonder at the meticulous accuracy which his predecessor brought to bear on his work, and to confess that he often felt daunted and could have no hope of equalling a similar level of excellence; he can only hope that this edition will, in some degree, bear comparison.

It would seem that the two most desirable attributes of such a book as this are that it should be accurate and as complete as possible. The first is the responsibility of the Editor alone, for he must faithfully record such details as may be given him. As to the record being complete he is, to a very large extent, dependent on the good-will of others. No doubt the difficult and uncertain times in which we live have their influence; nevertheless, some measure of disappointment is unavoidable.

The general scope of the book remains as in previous editions. But here let it be said that if any future edition is to be kept within manageable and convenient proportions drastic pruning will be necessary; indeed, the deletion of some of the pages prior to Part I was seriously considered when the edition was being planned but in deference to widespread feeling and opinion they have been retained. It may be that when the time comes for yet another edition a more detailed and comprehensive history of the School will be in print which will render these pages superfluous and their omission easier of acceptance.

From 1918 onwards abbreviations have not been used except in following the usual custom of indicating honours and academic distinctions and it is hoped that it will be considered that, as a result, the text is easier to read and more pleasing to the eye. The scheme would have been extended but considerations of space did not allow.

The Editor takes this opportunity of expressing his gratitude to all those who have given their kindly aid and have brought their experience, knowledge and scholarship to his assistance ; to Mr A. B. Gourlay whose enthusiastic and painstaking research has brought many new facts to light and has added many new names to the list of those who may claim to be Old Shirburnians, even though their record is scanty and they are long since dead and otherwise forgotten; to Mr G. O'Hanlon who has edited his own account of the more modern School buildings and brought it up to date; to Mr. R. S. Thompson, Lieutenant-Colonel G. G. Green, Mr S. Hey, Mr M. E. K. Westlake and Lieutenant K. F. F. Ranken who have given generous help in rewriting the descriptions of Societies, Games and other School activities ; to Mr B. W. Ridout for providing details of the damage to School buildings ; to the many who have replied to requests for information but who must remain unnamed ; and to those who have lightened moments of despondency with words of encouragement. The burden of reading the proof has been materially lessened by the help of the Editor's wife and of two members of Abbey House, Hugh Ardagh and Edmund Parsons to whom the Editor can never be sufficiently grateful. And finally he must acknowledge the skill and care which Mr H. W. Warren (o.s.) and his staff have bestowed on the task of publication.

THE SCHOOL AND ITS BUILDINGS

And in his ears
The murmur of a thousand years.

TO attempt a description of the School buildings without first telling the story of their origin, would be to rob the subject of half its interest. Something, therefore, must be told about the origin of Sherborne and its position in early English history.

The traveller who visits Sherborne for the first time soon finds out that he is in no ordinary English country town ; the size of the Church suggests this to him, the group of School buildings suggests it. And, if he looks at those buildings with any care, he discovers that, among much that is new, there is a great deal that is old, and that this old work, a little of which dates as far back as the end of the seventh or the beginning of the eighth century, contains specimens of every epoch of architecture. A man who knows the usual arrangement of a Benedictine monastery has no difficulty in calling up before his mind's eye here in Sherborne the Abbey as it stood in the fifteenth century ; he is easily able to fit in the buildings, which have passed away, with those which still remain. This, however, has been made a much easier task for those who are away from Sherborne if they will only study for a few minutes Plan I, which shows very clearly, considering the mass of detail in it, what the shape of the Abbey buildings was at the dissolution in 1539, what monastic buildings still stand, now given up to School purposes, what monastic buildings have disappeared, and where these buildings stood.

Foundation of Town and Cathedral

After what is now the county of Dorset had been won for Wessex from the West-Welsh—a result completed about the year 681—the territory thus gained was added, so far as matters spiritual went, to the see of Winchester. But it soon became clear that such a vast diocese must be divided, and King Ine of Wessex determined therefore to divide his realm into two dioceses, an eastern and a western. Of the western diocese, which consisted of the modern counties of Dorset and Somerset with part of Wilts, the first bishop was St Ealdhelm, Ine's kinsman, formerly Abbot of Malmesbury. In this new diocese, a region which stretches from Bridport to Bedminster and from Poole to Porlock, no better spot for the Bishop's seat could have been found than Sherborne, and we are not concerned to defend Ealdhelm's choice against the criticisms of William of Malmesbury (Gest. Pont. 175). The important point for us to notice is, that to its central position

Sherborne owes its claim to be considered the second city of Wessex; here St Ealdhelm fixed his Bishop's settle beside the clear spring or stream, the Pons Limpidus, which in the vulgar tongue was called Scireburn.

Here, then, round about the Royal Minster of Ine and Ealdhelm, grew up the second city of Wessex, for the Oxon Dorchester seems ere this either to have passed into Mercian hands, or at any rate to have been felt to be too exposed a site for a West Saxon see. The date of the foundation of the Cathedral Church of Sherborne is 705, and by local tradition, based on the close connection between church and education, this too has long been taken as the starting point of the School. From the beginning down to the year 1122, the Bishop of the Diocese, whether his throne was at Sherborne or at Sarum-on-the-Hill, was chief of the Foundation here and Lord of Sherborne, and near us, where the ruined castle of Bishop Roger still stands, was his chief dwelling-place.

Sherborne for a time the Capital of Wessex

The dignity, which for a brief space Sherborne held as capital of Wessex, it owed to its situation ; it lies to the west and almost within the skirts of what was once the forest-tract of Westwood or Selwood, on the high ground midway between sea and sea. The Pons Limpidus flows into the Parrett, and so to the Severn sea ; the stream, which rises some two miles to the south of us, flows out by Christchurch into the English Channel. Unlike the Gwent of Hampshire, in which lies Winchester, the capital of the older Wessex, this backbone of the West on which our town stands is not easily accessible to marauders from the sea. King Ecgberht of Wessex (802-37) in right of an overlordship which stretched from the Forth to the English Channel, might well be called " King of the English," but this greatness of Wessex was short-lived. The Northmen were again beginning to send forth their pirate-fleets as in the days of Hengist and of Cerdic ; these Northmen, Danes as they were now called, swept like a storm over England ; letters, arts, religion, governments disappeared before them. Only in one corner of the land did Englishmen hold their own throughout, namely in this Western or newer Wessex, of which Sherborne was the centre. Between the years 871 and 933 three Bishops of Sherborne, chiefs of that society of which this School formed a part, fell in battle against the Danes-Heahmund, Werstan, and Sighelm. Æthelwulf, Ecgberht's successor, fought a good fight for his realm, and his best general and right-hand man was Ealhstan, Bishop of Sherborne. The first complete victory over the Danes was won in 845 at the mouth of the Parret, and it was Ealhstan who won it. The dust of this warrior rests in Sherborne, that of Æthelwulf at Winchester, for as yet the capital of the older Wessex was safe enough to be the chief seat of government. But it was not so with Iǥthelwulf's two elder sons, IBthelbald and IBthelberht ; from 860 to 878 Winchester was too exposed a site for the West Saxon capital ; Sherborne became the royal city. Hence it is that IBthelbald and IBthelberht are buried in Sherborne Abbey ; hence it is that Sherborne, like Glastonbury and Winchester, is in some sort an earlier rival of Westminster itself. King Iǥthelwulf was succeeded by each of his four sons in turn, and their graves mark the headway made against the Dane; Iǥthelbald and Iǥthelberht lie at Sherborne, IBthelred at Wimborne, and Iǥlfred at Winchester in the old home and capital of his race. When we remember how Sherborne was from 860 to 878 the royal city of Wessex, is it entirely fanciful to imagine that King Iǥlfred himself, undergoing the ordinary course of education of Englishmen of his time, was once a pupil in the local grammar school at Sherborne ?

Sherborne Declines in Importance

After the complete conquest of West Wales, Devon at least, if not Cornwall, was added to the diocese of Sherborne : in 909, however, the dioceses of Somerset and Devon, with their sees at Wells and Crediton, were taken out of the diocese of Sherborne, and at the same time the diocese of Wilts and Berks, with its see at Ramsbury, was taken out of that of Winchester. Probably at this time, too, that part of Wilts which had belonged to Sherborne was added to Ramsbury, as it certainly formed a part of that diocese in the days of Eadward the Confessor. The diocese of Sherborne now consisted of Dorset only, and henceforward Sherborne was not central in the see. In 1058 the dioceses of Sherborne and Ramsbury were joined together by the Confessor under the rule of Bishop Hermann, who in 1075 removed his see to the waterless hill of Old Sarum, as being more central in the new diocese thus formed. There can be no doubt that this transfer affected considerably the importance of Sherborne.

Sherborne Cathedral comes under Benedictine Rule, and finally gets an Abbot of its own

In the year 998 Bishop Wulsige introduced the Benedictine Rule into his Cathedral here. That this date is correct there is little doubt, though Hearne, in quoting the charter of Iǥthelred, by which this change was made, has substituted for Wulsige the more famous name of Wulsiri. St Wulsin, Bishop of Sherborne, died in or about 98. The record of Sherborne in Domesday is specially interesting. The Bishop appears as temporal lord of Sherborne, but nine of the manors which he holds are set apart for the maintenance of the monks, whose Abbot he is. The monks, therefore, had no freehold of their own ; and the Bishop and the monks are mentioned as a body, a corporation, which was in the habit of acting together, in that curious entry in Domesday in which occurs the only mention of any of the Conqueror's sons. This entry tells how William the Red took away a possession of the church of Sherborne without the consent of the Bishop and the monks. The words concern some lands at Stalbridge, -and run thus : de eadem etiam terra tenet Manasses iii virgatas quas W. filius regis tulit ab eccl'ia sine consensu episcopi et monachorum. In the year 1122, Roger Bishop of Sarum and Abbot of Sherborne gave our Abbey an Abbot of its own by a charter of Henry I, and he made the Abbot and the monks a separate corporation holding property of their own apart from him.. The first Abbot on the new footing was Thurstan.

Bishop Roger of Sarum, builder of the Norman Abbey Church and Castle of Sherborne

Of all the Abbots of Sherborne, none, not even Ealdhelm himself, was more remarkable than Roger of Caen, the chief minister of the " Lion of Justice " ; the first of that great family of statesmen and financiers which gave four Bishops to the English Church. He stands out in history not only as a statesman, but also as a builder of the first rank. He created and organized the English Court of Exchequer, and his grandnephew, Bishop of London, is the author of the Dialogus de Scaccario. Architecture, both military and ecclesiastical, was a special taste of Roger's, and to him William of Malmesbury, his contemporary, ascribes the introduction of that later form of the Norman style, the fine-jointed masonry, of which we have such splendid fragments here in Sherborne, both in his Norman Castle and his Norman Church. His castle he built on the site, no doubt, of the house of his predecessors in the see, his minster on the site of Ealdhelm's, which he pulled down. One little fragment he left us of the time that was gone, of Ealdhelm's own work, in the north side of the west wall of the present Abbey Church. The doorway, which may still be seen there, carries us back to the beginning of the eighth century. The fact that the Abbey Church of Sherborne was not rebuilt earlier under Norman rule is proof positive, if we had no other, that Ealdhelm's Church here was, in workmanship, superior to most of the pre-Conquest English churches. That it was a fine Church is evident from what William of Malmesbury says of it. Writing of Ealdhelm (Gest. Pont. 378) he says : habuitque sedem Scireburniae, ubi et ecclesiam, quam ego quoque vidi, mirifice construxit. The defect in our Church was not its masonry, but its size; it was not on a large enough scale to satisfy the new ideas.

The Abbey Buildings at the Dissolution of the Monastery

The Abbey buildings, as we find them at the Dissolution, are of various dates, but, with the exception of the fragment of Ealdhelm's Church just mentioned, we cannot be sure that any are older than Bishop Roger's time (1102-39). It is the peculiar distinction of Sherborne School that it has kept so much of the old walls and of the very shape of the monastic house to which it was attached. It is worth a thought that out of all the Abbey buildings only two are still used by the sort of people by whom they were used originally. These two are the Church, in which the parishioners still gather as they did then, and the "Schole-House," in which school-house boys still gather as they did then, not now, however, there to receive food for the mind, but food for the body. In the Church the parishioners were almost intruders, for it was the monks' own Church; the old Cathedral School was not a very imposing part of the domestic buildings, nor were the scholars of first importance in the community. But now the last are first, and the first are gone. Among the boys at Sherborne only a few years before Roger became Abbot, there was a lad who was destined to play a great part in monastic history; his name was Harding. In after years he became a monk, and took the name of Stephen. He is St Stephen Harding, the real founder of the Cistercian Order.

The Great Fire and the re-building of the Abbey Church in the Perpendicular Style

I entirely agree with the view, which is sometimes disputed, that the rebuilding of the Abbey Church was commenced by Abbot Bruning (1414-36) and not by his successor Abbot Bradford; the effect of the fire on the stonework of the perpendicular addition to the Norman tower, as well as on the piers of the choir, proves this. Still the choir, as we have it now, with its splendid clerestory and matchless fan-vaulting, is Bradford's work (1436-59). In 1436 occurred the great quarrel between the monks and the townsfolk, which resulted in the fire of 1437. In consequence of this fire almost the whole fabric of the Church was gradually rebuilt and repaired in the style of the time, the choir by Abbot Bradford (1436-59), the nave by Abbot Ramsain or Rampisham (1475-1504). Ramsain also built, according to Leland, the Perpendicular Chapel of St. Mary-le-Bow on the south side of the earlier Lady Chapel, about which I shall have more to write presently. The history of the Abbey Church, as shared between the monks and the parishioners, the building of Alhalowes Chapel at the west end of the monastic Church, the story of the fire, the conversion of Alhalowes Chapel into the Parish Church, and with that the extrusion of the parishioners from the monastic Church, belong to a history of the town rather than to our own. It will be sufficient to caution students of Sherborne history that the account in Hutchins' Dorset is neither clear nor quite correct. An excellent account by Prof. Willis will be found in vol. XXII of the Archaeological Society's Journal. But it cannot be out of place to remind those students how strongly the anarchy of Henry VI's minority is brought home to us by this riot and burning. Well might men say in those days : Vae tibi, terra, cuius rex est puer.

The principal buildings of a Benedictine abbey were always grouped round the cloister-garth, which, as a rule, stood at the south side of the nave of the Church. At Sherborne the cloister was on the north side. To understand what I am now going to describe, it will be necessary for readers to follow closely Plan I. In the centre of the garth was the conduit, used as a lavatory. The cloister had on each side eight bays, with six windows looking into the garth and built into walls of an earlier date. The builder of these cloisters was Abbot Frithe (1349-71) ; the builder of the conduit, now removed to the parade, was Abbot Meer (1504-35). The north wall of the cloister abutted on the Norman undercroft of the Abbot's Hall (now the Chapel of the School). This hall is built in a line not parallel with the Church ; hence resulted the irregular plan of the cloister-court. The cloisters were vaulted, for the springing-stones, wall-ribs, and shafts still remain, mutilated, in the north wall of the north aisle of the Church, and in the east wall of the class-rooms under the present school library. These walls formed the south and west walls of the cloister. On the east side of the cloister, forming a continuation of the north transept of the Church, stood the monks' dormitory ; under this was the chapter-house, and to the north of the chapter-house, also under the dormitory, was the day-room of the monks ; south of the chapter-house was the slype leading to the graveyard or "lytten," which is now the School House lawn. This slype, of thirteenth century construction, still exists. Its western exit is blocked up by a buttress of 1561, and over it still stands a portion of the dormitory, with a single-light window almost untouched inside, but modernized outside. Eastward of this dormitory block, and about twenty-five yards north of the Abbey choir, stood the Priory, with its garden to the north of it. Its site and shape are shown on Plan II. It became the property of the School in 1749, and was then removed. To the east of the Priory, on the site of the School House private side, stood the Infirmary, of which no trace is now left, except, perhaps, under ground.

On the north side of the cloister, and south of the Abbot's lodgings, stood the Refectory. This, too, has entirely disappeared ; but the Abbot's lodgings and the kitchen are still standing, though much altered and in parts rebuilt, and converted into the School House studies. The east and south walls of this block are modern, but the north wall is in the main of fifteenth century date. Here still stands a fine old chimney with panels, once carved with the symbols of the Evangelists. Here, too, is a fine doorway of the same date with canopy and niches above it. In the projecting octagonal block beside it were the stairs to the upper floor, and on its roof are some fine gargoyles like those of the Abbey Church. The chimney belonged to the kitchen. Next to the Abbot's lodgings, and west of it, stands a very fine fifteenth century hall on a substructure of late Norman work. This was originally the Abbot's hall, now it is the School Chapel. It has been very carefully restored and increased in length by the addition of two bays to the west end. Of the undercroft, four bays, at least, and one of the low pillars are ancient Norman work; the windows are modern, and are facsimiles of those in Boxgrove Abbey. The magnificent timber roof of the Chapel is of the fifteenth century; but the Chapel windows are modern.

On the west side of the cloister we have another fine fifteenth century hall on a substructure of the thirteenth century; this substructure was reached by a doorway, now blocked up, leading from the undercroft of the Chapel. This hall, now the Library, has been little altered from its fifteenth century condition; the stonework of the windows has been repaired and their number increased, the flying buttresses have been added, as well as two smaller ones, on the west side; a small adjoining block on the west, containing a staircase, has been removed, but it was standing in 1733.

This hall has a fine timber roof of the fifteenth century similar to that of the Chapel; the three northern bays, however, are of simpler details than the rest, and this appears to indicate the existence of a partition. The only ancient stairs to this upper floor which still exist are in a circular turret at the south-east angle of the building; this staircase is lighted by a thirteenth century single-light window. At the top of this staircase there is a doorway, now blocked up, leading into the upper storey of the south alley of the cloister, where the monks' Library probably was. To what use the monks put this fine hall is a matter of dispute; Mr Herbert Carpenter calls it the Guesten Hall, but there was at Kirkstall (a Cistercian Abbey, it is true) a building in the same relative position to the Church, and that building was the dormitory of the Conversi. Mr Carpenter, therefore, is not altogether averse to the theory that the building under discussion was put to the same use. At Battle Abbey the Domus Conversorum stands on a substructure as ours does and adjoins the Abbot's hall. The great staircase to the Library is modern.

The south alley of the cloister had an upper storey entered as above described; if the piscina, still to be seen in the wall, is in its original position, there must have been a chapel here. There is now no door from this cloister into the Church; the arched recess on the inside of the wall of the north aisle of the nave may have been a doorway ; if so, the graining of the cloister must have been specially treated on a corbel ; otherwise the shaft would stand in the middle of the doorway. There was, before the restoration of the Abbey Church, begun in 1848, a doorway in the west wall of the north transept, but it is now blocked up. The four-light flowing windows of the north aisle come below the level of the cloister vaulting ; these windows are modern, and were put in by Mr R. C. Carpenter, one of them in the place of an old and similar window, which must have been blocked up by the upper storey of the cloister ; the three buttresses here are modern.

The ancient Early English Lady Chapel was originally of three bays, with smaller chapels on each side ; these latter were of the fifteenth century, similar in style to the choir aisles, and separated from them by stone screens. At the present time only one bay of the old Lady Chapel and the smaller southern chapel are standing. This southern chapel is that of St Mary-le-Bow ; its fine fan-vault still exists, so also do the piers and arches of the one bay of the older Lady Chapel. How these chapels were converted into the "Old House " I shall tell further down. The monks' graveyard ; as I have already noted, is the lawn in front of the School House ; the Great Court was the Abbey garden ; the School House garden contains the site of the Abbey fishponds ; the Abbey mill was by the present swimming bath, probably on the site of the carpenter's shop and the museum* ; the farm buildings were on the site of Abbey House and Abbeylands, now School boarding-houses ; the Abbey barn, converted into a dwelling-house in 1827, is still called Abbey Grange ; the great gate-tower has left one of its doorways and other fragments in the lane which leads from the Parade. to the Church. It is now time to pass to the post-Reformation history of the School.

The Dissolution of the Monastery and the Refounding of the School

For eight centuries and a half the School of Sherborne had continued doing its work for the education of boys and youths in this part of England, till on 18 March 1539 Abbot John Barnstaple, with sixteen monks, surrendered the Abbey, with all that belonged to it, into the hands of King Henry VIII ; the Abbot and the monks retired on good pensions, and the Abbot himself died Rector of Stalbridge in 1560. Thus the School lost the Exhibitions, which, as we learn from the Valor Ecclesiasticus of 1536, had year by year been given to it by the Abbot and Convent of Sherborne ; but there is considerable evidence that the School itself went on, though doubtless in a crippled condition, paying its "dry rent" of 4d. a year, not now, as in former days, to the Monastery, but to Sir John Horsey, the lay impropiator of the demesne lands of Sherborne Abbey. It was no doubt owing to the School being thus crippled that a petition was presented to Edward VI for its refoundation, and so it came about that on 13 May 1550 the King by letters patent refounded Sherborne School in answer to the petition not only of the inhabitants of the town and parish of Sherborne, but also of "many others his subjects of the whole neighbouring country." With reference to this act of Edward VI, Mr A. F. Leach, the highest living authority on the subject, writes : " Its charter is the first which set up a purely lay corporation, with no other duties, religious or municipal, for the single purpose of maintaining a School. The Governors of Sherborne School were, we may say, the first School Board—the first body whose first, last and only duties were educational."

The Endowment of the School

Just as in 1122, by King Henry I's permission, Bishop Roger erected the Abbot and monks of Sherborne into a corporation separate from himself, so in 1550 did Edward VI erect Sherborne School into a separate corporation, and endow it with the following lands, which had belonged to chantries connected with the Abbey :

- (a) The chantry of Martock, in Somerset, with its rights and appurtenances and a capital mansion belonging thereto.
- (b) The property of the said chantry, situate at Bradford, Brande, or Bryan, and Barnardsley or Barnsley, in the parish of Wimborne, in Dorset.
- (c) The chantry of St Katharine, at Gillingham, with the capital mansion situate at Gillingham, and all lands, messuages, etc., situate in Gillingham, Silton, Milton and Cumbermead, formerly the property of the said chantry.
- (d) All houses, lands and rent; in Lytchett Matravers and Sturminster Marshall, belonging to Gibbon's chantry in Lytchett Matravers.
- (e) The free chapel of Thornton, in the parish of Marnhull, with its endowments.
- (f) Thirty acres of land in the parish of Symondsbury, which had belonged to the chantry of St Katharine, in the parish of Iminster.

These lands were to be held by the Governors of the King, paying yearly into the Court of Augmentations 13s. 4d. ; the payment has long ago been redeemed, and the lands the Governors still hold, with the exception of the Chantry House at Martock and some of the land at Gillingham.

The Proper Title of Sherborne School

According to the Charter of 1550, our School is styled Libera Schola Grammaticalis. It is libera, because the education is to be free, so far as the endowment will allow ; it is grammaticalis; because it is a seat of higher education, grammatica ; it has a right to the epithet regalis, because it is a royal foundation ; but since the year 1871, when the Scheme of the Endowed Schools Commissioners came into force, its only legal title is Sherborne School, though here in Sherborne it may be convenient to speak of it as the "King's School," in contradistinction to the other schools of the place. Moreover, its ancient style was in English always Sherborne School, and nothing else.

The Governors

The Governors, twenty in number, who were nominated by the King in his charter, were also then members of another Sherborne corporation ; they were the Master and Brethren of the Hospital of SS. John, in Sherborne, and from that time forward, until the introduction of the new scheme, a man who was elected a Brother of the Hospital of SS. John was immediately afterwards elected a Governor of the School ; but the two corporations were in law entirely distinct, owning separate estates and furnishing separate accounts; and the Minute Book of the Governors shows that the Master of the Hospital was never at the same time Warden of the School.

The Site of the School

Though the King had given us a Charter and an Endowment, he had not furnished us with any premises in which the School could be carried on. Sir John Horsey was the owner of the School House, as the Abbey had been before him, and to him the Governors continued to pay the old "dry-rent" of 4d. a year. But in the year 1555, Sir John demised to the Governors by lease for 99 years the School House, Plumbe House, Ankret House, Abbey Lytten, Plumbe House Garden, School Barton, and the ground on which the Lady Chapels (i.e. part of them) had lately stood. Whereupon the Governors rebuilt and enlarged the School House.

In 1559 the Governors bought from the Master and Brethren of the Almshouse the fee of the two Lady Chapels (i.e. as much as was then standing and still stands) as well as the south part of the dormitory of the Monastery, adjoining the north transept of the Abbey Church, from the Chapter-house door to the transept on the west side, and from the east window of the Chapter-house to the transept on the east side. They also took over from the Master and Brethren a lease, which the latter held, of the Conduit House and waterpipes, together with the Conduit-head in Well Close. Sir John Horsey had sold this property and leased the Conduit for two hundred years to the Almshouse in 1554. For this property and lease the School paid £40, and thus they had, it seems, nearly reached the limit to which their endowment of property might extend without their infringing the Statute of Mortmain : the limit which was laid down in the Charter being this, that, in addition to the Endowment, the School might hold a further amount of property, provided its annual value did not exceed £20. Henceforward, whatever property the Governors bought was conveyed to them by a roundabout method : i.e. it was conveyed to "feoffees " for them, under what was known as " the liberty of association," according to the law or equity about uses and trusts, which enabled a body of men to own property, while a screen of feoffees protected it from the inquisitive scrutiny of the State. By this method the School House and Conduit in 1629, and the Priory in 1749, passed in fee to the School, as will be told presently.

First Site of Headmaster's House

The Governors then, in 1560-1, converted the Lady Chapels, marked A on Plan II, into a dwelling-house for the Headmaster. The chief external decoration consisted of "the armes of our late Sovereynge Lord King Edward the Sixte," which were placed on the south wall of the house ; under them were placed the arms of Bishop Jewel of Salisbury, of Horsey of Clifton Maybank, of Lewston of Lewston, of Mullins of Westhall, of Thornhill of Thornhill, and of another, not now decipherable; underneath these are the initials of the then Governors of the School. The late King's arms were also set up over the south door of the School House in 1607, when windows containing stained glass with the arms of Sir John Strangways, Sir George Trenchard, and Sir Thomas Mullins were also put up in the schoolroom. This stained glass has all perished.

In 1605 the Governors obtained from Sir Raufe Horsey a lease for 1000 years of the School House, Plumbe House, Ankret House, Abbey Lytten, Plumbe House Garden, School Barton, and the ground on which the Lady Chapels had stood, in consideration of Sir Raufe's love for Sherborne and his regard and care for the advancement of learning. In 1629 the whole of the above property, together with the Conduit, was conveyed to feoffees for the Governors in fee by the trustees of Robert Coker, who then represented the Horsey family. Thus by the year 1629 the Governors owned in fee all the property marked with the heavy line in Plan II.

Extension of the School Buildings in 1605-7, and again in 1642

In 1605 an extension of the buildings was needed, and money was raised for the purpose by the Governors ; an order was made in 1607 for the finishing of the extension in that year. This building was the schoolroom and marked B on Plan II; that portion, however, of the block which on the plan is marked C was at this time built only of one storey as a brew house and a woodhouse. In 1642 "it is agreed that the Warden shall for the benefit and advantage of the school rase upon the side walls of the brewhouse and woodhouse belonging to the schoolhouse such chambers as may be conveniently made and rased on the same." This brew-house and woodhouse with its upper storey was removed in 1835 to make room for the Bell Buildings.

Sherborne School under the Commonwealth

From the Governors' Minute Book we should never guess that Sherborne Castle was twice besieged during the Civil War ; the only notice which is taken of the change of government is the account of the removal of the Royal arms. On 10 August 1650, in the wardenship of Hugh Hodges, "the companie doe agree that the warden doe gett workmen to take downe the Kinges armes over the schole door and at the south end of the scholehouse, it being commanded and required by Captayne Hdyar, a captayne for the Parliament, to be done."

Alterations to the Schoolroom in 1670

In 1670 we find in the Minute Book an order for the statue of King Edward VI to be put up again in the same manner as it had stood in the old school, and the same four lines are to be set up beneath it as were there before. They run thus :

En tibi, Flos Iuvenum, Britonum Decus, Inclytus Orbis
 Splendor, Apollinei Delicireque Chori,
 Gymnasium hic Pueris statuit gratumque Minerva!,
 Vt gratis discant : discito : gratus eris.

The Headmaster, Mr Goodenough, is also desired by the Warden to " make a paire of Latine verses to putt under the Kinges armes," which have by this time been restored to their old place over the schoolroom door. To this we owe the clever chronogram which, while describing the coat of arms, gives not only the date of the rebuilding of the schoolroom (now the School House dining-hall), but also the date of the refoundation of the School. It runs as follows :

Tecta Draco custos, Leo vinDeX, fLos Decus, auctor
 ReX pius, hrec servat, protegit, ornat, aLit.

It should be noticed that Draco is the subject of servat, Leo of protegit, jlos of ornat, and Rex of alit. The date of the refoundation of the School is got by taking the black letters in pairs, thus :

$$\begin{array}{ccccccc} \mathbf{DL} & + & \mathbf{DX} & + & \mathbf{LD} & + & \mathbf{XL} \\ 550 & & 510 & & 450 & & 40 = 1550. \end{array}$$

The date of the building is got by adding all the black letters together thus :

$$\begin{array}{ccccccccccc} \mathbf{D} & + & \mathbf{L} & + & \mathbf{D} & + & \mathbf{X} & + & \mathbf{L} & + & \mathbf{D} & + & \mathbf{X} & + & \mathbf{L} \\ 500 & & 50 & & 500 & & 10 & & 50 & & 500 & & 10 & & 50 = 1670. \end{array}$$

In this same year an alteration was made in the block of buildings marked C on Plan II, and a library was formed in this block, which Dr Highmore, Warden, was empowered by the Governors to furnish in 1676, and in the same year the School furnaces were altered so as to burn coal.

Further Extension of the School Buildings in 1697

In 1697 another addition was made to the buildings, and the sum of £419. 9s. 6d. was expended on erecting a house at the west end of the School yard, between the Priory and the Plumbe House, containing a parlour and a woodhouse, "with several chambers over it for sick boys." Two years before a violent attack of small-pox had dispersed the School. This new block, known as the "Box Buildings," is marked D on Plan II; it was removed in 1855.

The Priory bought in 1749

In 1749 the Priory and adjoining garden, or barton, were bought by the Governors; the building itself was pulled down, and the site, together with the barton, was turned into a garden for the Headmaster. The extension thus made to the School premises will be evident to any one who notes the wider extent of the boundary, as indicated by the dotted line on Plan II.

The Bell Buildings set up in 1835

The next extension of the School premises was during the Headmastership of Dr. Lyon, in 1835, when the Bell Buildings were set up. Over the doorway is the following inscription: "Scholre Regali crescente fama adcrevit hocce aedificium, MDCCCXXXV."

The New Schoolroom, the Chapel, and the School House Studies, 1855

In the year 1850 the Rev. H. D. Harper was elected Headmaster of the School, and under him took place a development so wide and manifold that the story of it, if adequately told, would take up as much space as I have given to the history of the buildings from the Reformation down to 1835. Sherborne was enviably fortunate in having such a man at the helm at the time, when "the grand, old, fortifying, classical curriculum" was ceasing to be absolutely supreme. Mr Harper has been for us all, and more than all, that Bishop Roger, our former Abbot, was for England in the days of Henry I. To understand what he did for Sherborne, readers should compare Plan II with Plan I. Plan II gives the state of the School when Mr Harper took matters in hand. [If then, with this in mind, they will in imagination colour those buildings which are marked "H." and "H and Y" on Plan I, not forgetting those which the Carrington Buildings have obliterated, they will be able to estimate Dr Harper's magnificent services.] By genius, by energy, by tact, by patience, with wonderful forethought and a just estimate of the educational needs of the time, he worked up Sherborne into a model school; but just as he was one of the greatest of schoolmasters, so was he one who least cared to have his achievements trumpeted abroad. I will therefore write no more on this head, but will leave the record of his deeds, written as they are so deeply on our buildings, to speak for him. "Omnia, quaecumque fecit, prosperabantur."

In the year 1851 Edward, Earl Digby, granted by deed to the Governors and their successors the block of buildings marked "Silk Mill" on Plan II, with the adjoining land. This block consisted of the Guesten Hall, the Abbot's Hall, and lodgings, with part of the kitchen of the Monastery. These buildings had for years been used as a silk-mill; they had been grievously mutilated; floors had been inserted at the level of the wall-plates, and the beautiful timber roofs had been cut through to make dormer windows. The restoration of these buildings was put into the hands of Mr R. C. Carpenter, and he carried out the work with singular success. The Guesten Hall was turned into a "Big Schoolroom," the Abbot's Hall into a Chapel, the Abbot's lodgings and kitchen into studies for the boys of the School House. The Chapel was consecrated on 17 February 1855. The following inscription, carved in stone and let into the north wall of the Big Schoolroom (now the Library), commemorates this generous gift:

VT · MEMINERIT · PRAESENS · AETAS
 TRADATQVE · POSTERIS
 QVA · FVERIT · MVNIFICENTIA
 EDVARDVS · COMES · DIGBY

 HVNC · LAPIDEM · PONENDVM · CVRAVERVNT
 G.VBERNATORES

In this same year, 1855, the block marked Don Plan II, known as the "Box Buildings," was removed.

New School House Dormitory Block and Headmaster's House built 1860-1

In 1860 the Governors conveyed to Mr George Wingfield Digby of Sherborne Castle the old Headmaster's house of 1559, marked A on Plan II, for the sum of £3000, and thus a building, which had belonged to the School from the very first years of its refoundation, passed out of the possession of the Governors. In the same year the new private house of the Headmaster and the School House dormitory block were begun, and finished in the following year. These buildings are satisfactory to look upon, and harmonize well with their surroundings. Sherborne owes much to Nature, but perhaps Nature's greatest gift to us is the beautiful stone which lies so near to our hand.

Fives Courts, 1861

In 1861, by the bounty of Mr George Wingfield Digby, the Fives Courts were built to the south of the site of the present Big School-room ; they were added to by subscription in 1869, and removed to their present site (see Plan I) in 1874:

Extension of Chapel, 1865

In 1865 the Chapel and undercroft were extended two bays westward, the details of the original work being reproduced. Some Old Shirburnians will remember the room thus added to the undercroft as the Sixth Form classroom.* In it the debates were for years held, and it has been the scene of much stormy eloquence.

New Classrooms, 1869-70

In 1869 the new Classroom block was erected which forms the west side of the small court, of which the Chapel, the Library, and the wall of Alhalowes Church form the other three. The block is worthy of its surroundings.

Swimming-bath, Music-room Drawing School, Carpenter's Shop and Laboratory, 1873-4

In 1873 the Abbey Mills and lands adjoining the west of the School premises were bought by the Governors from the trustees of Edward, Earl Digby. The mills were converted into a laboratory > music-room, drawing school, and carpenter's shop. In 1890 the armoury of the Cadet Corps was also placed here. The swimming-bath, one of the great glories of Sherborne, was made in 1873, and the first "header" was taken by Mr Harper.

Extension of Chapel, 1877-9

In 1877 the Chapel was again enlarged by the addition of a north aisle built on a perpendicular cloister, which runs parallel with the undercroft of the Chapel. The effect of this addition on the Great Court is thoroughly good ; the somewhat massive buttresses give the building a stately look, and the cloister windows are a marked feature in the court. In the following year Mr Harper's old pupils undertook the decoration of the chancel of the Chapel " to commemorate the invaluable services rendered by him to the School during a period of twenty-seven years, from the year 1850 to the year 1877, during which he held the post of Headmaster."

New Big Schoolroom, 1877-9

In 1877 Mr Harper, just before his departure, had the satisfaction of seeing the foundations laid of the fine building which is now our Big Schoolroom. It is a large and well-proportioned hall of Perpendicular style, and is an excellent place for sound. In 1883 an opportunity occurred of forming, in the north wall, a recess for an organ chamber, and in 1884 an organ was placed there. In 1895, on the motion and mainly through the generosity of Mr H. R. King, Assistant Master, the room was panelled, floored and furnished in oak.

Lavatory Block and Cloister, connecting Big Schoolroom with Chapel Block, 1879

In 1879 the Big Schoolroom was connected with the cloister under the north aisle of the Chapel by a similar cloister, behind which was built the lavatory block, and thus the west side of the Great Court was completed. Now that the new Big Schoolroom was available not only for teaching purposes, but also for our concerts, it became necessary to devote the Guesten Hall (the former Big Schoolroom) and the music-room to other uses.

Museum and Library, 1880

In 1880 the music-room was fitted up as a Museum, and in the same year the Guesten Hall was converted into a Library. The Library was extended and improved in 1881, and again in 1884. The conversion of this building to this purpose, and its internal improvement and decoration, are largely due to Mr Young, and the result is a beautiful Library. Of all our buildings, whether we look at it from the outside or the inside, it is, in my opinion, the most satisfactory. Its windows, some of which are of the fifteenth century, are of excellent proportion, and though the tracery of the window in the south end is somewhat meagre, the stained glass, with which it was filled to commemorate the Jubilee of Queen Victoria, has made this defect less apparent. The oak flooring, the oak bookshelves, and other details are thoroughly satisfactory.* The valuable set of eight Chippendale chairs has found a safer sanctuary in the Headmaster's house.

New Class-rooms, 1883

In 1883 a new block of Class-rooms was built to the north of the present Big School; this block is of good Perpendicular work, and has one especially fine feature, viz. the staircase window. But the north wall ought to have been pierced by more windows; as it now stands it is almost a deformity.

Sanatorium, 1886-7

In 1887 was completed the Sanatorium in the orchard to the west of the School House garden; its style is in harmony with our other buildings. The original plan gave a second wing on the north side. [This would have almost sufficed to give the number of beds now required, but the chance of carrying out the design went when the Governors granted Mr C. H. Hodgson the me of the adjoining land for the building of Wharton.]

* The brass gas-pendants which W. B. W. seems to have admired went when electricity came in 1923.

.I should be going outside the scope of this notice if I were to describe the field with its pavilion, or the boarding-houses, which are dotted about the town, or the preparatory school. Excellent and essential as they are, they do not form one group with the buildings of the School. The exploits in the field will be dealt with elsewhere, and the associations connected with the houses are, after all, too special to be properly treated by me.

Such then is the outward aspect of our School to-day ; it bears: on its face the record of its origin and its long history ; and not the School only, but much else that lies about it, speaks of England as a land of long and steady growth, step after step of which is written. here in stone. In our Abbey we see the spiritual a-rrot ela from our J.L.'JTp-rraA.t<; of Malmesbury, but an chr:oucia so mighty that it drew away from its mother her own beloved ruler, Ealdhelm; we see the Cathedral Church of that vast diocese out of which in later time were made the sees of Wells and Exeter and Truro, and partly those of Salisbury and Bristol ;. we see in it too the last resting-place of saints and soldiers and kings, men by whose efforts England's freedom was kept alive, when all the rest of the land lay under the Northman's scourge. From the ridge, on the southern slope of which our town lies, we look down on the marshes. of Athelney, whence King Alfred marched to win back the freedom of the older Wessex. In our Abbey we have the most perfect example of the Perpendicular style of Western England, the style of Somerset, of Dorset, and of Gloucestershire. The Church of St Mary of Sherborne, the Church of Bradford and of Ramsam. has no peer, not even in St Mary Redcliffe. There is here, too,. such fan-vaulting as was never built elsewhere, not in King's College Chapel at Cambridge, nor in Henry VII's Chapel at Westminster,. nor in the Chapel of St. George at Windsor.

We have in our ruined castle, the work and dwelling-place of Roger of Sarum, a model of masonry so excellent, that it is hard for us to believe history when it tells us that this castle was built in the reign, not of the second,. but of the first Henry. The gun-powder of the Civil War has blown much of it away, but it still tells very clearly what it once was. Hard by. lies the home of Raleigh on its knoll beside the lake, the modern castle from which William of Orange issued his manifesto to the English people, and the wooded hills behind ring .in the scene.

And last, beneath the great square Abbey tower, lies our own home, so venerable, so rich in colour, so rich in memories. There is a witchery in it no words can describe, and it is not a small matter that now for well-nigh twelve centuries-a period longer than the life of the English realm itself-the work of education has gone on here.. No Shirburnian, at any rate, will dispute the value of such a heritage. Much of the glory of Sherborne has passed away ; through the upheaval of the Norman Conquest it lost its Bishop, by the blows of the Malleus Monachorum it lost its Abbot ; but its School has lived through all, and, though it has now far outgrown its old limits, it still keeps its old-world look and its old charm.

For nine years after Mr Wildman wrote the last three paragraphs which are eloquent both of his love and of his learning the School buildings remained unaltered, with the sole exception of the Tuck Shop. For this certain Masters advanced the necessary money on the good security of boys' appetites and a surplus for gradual repayment, a confidence well founded, and profitable to the School> especially its playing fields. But in 1909 there succeeded a Headmaster worthy of Dr Harper in imagination and fearlessness. With Mr Nowell Smith's coming came a second spring : in his time of office numbers doubled. As his personality, adding affection to the loyalty of Old Shirburnians and gaining a wider reputation, drew more and more to send their sons here, both benefactors and Governors were moved to provide the necessary accommodation.

Carrington Buildings and Westcott Art School, 1910

The first of the buildings was the block raised on the site of the Abbey Mills (see p. xxi).

In part they constitute a fitting memorial to the healing and beloved Headmastership of Canon Westcott; in part they embody the munificence of Mr J. B. Carrington, Governor and parent. On the ground floor on the north side is the Armoury ; and above it is the Art School, beautifully lit from windows that look out on the School House garden ; this is properly the memorial of Old Shirburnians to Canon Westcott. The remainder of the block contains on the ground floor a class-room and two science rooms. One of these, that nearest the Armoury, had tiers of seats for purposes of demonstration and lectures ; but the floor was later made level. Above are three class-rooms. Two of these were made in 1947 out of the space originally allotted to the Museum, a good room lit by six dormer windows on the east side and five on the west. The growth in numbers made the provision of extra class-rooms imperative : but there is now no museum. The contents are side-tracked to the walls or dispersed in sheds and passages, relegated sine die to the care of better times for their re-assembling. For the whole of this block difficulty was found in securing adequate foundations, and large piers of concrete had to be sunk deep into the ground. The exterior is of Ham Hill stone; and the whole has a distinct character of dignity and pleasing proportion, though some eyes were offended by the rolled coping above the end windows, contrasting with the pointed architecture of the Big Schoolroom. Each door has its inscription, with device of arms above : over the north :

VIRI · VENERABILIS
FRID · B · WESTCOTT · OLIM · INFORMATORIS

The foundation stone of the Armoury was laid with full Masonic rites. The inscription runs :

Underneath the stone lie various coins of the realm, from a sovereign downwards. The trowel used by the Earl of Shaftesbury was that which his grandfather had used in 1860, and is kept in the Library. The main door to the Rifle Range, which it mercifully all but hides, has three inscriptions : " Cadet Corps I Dors. Regt. 1888," "Miniature Range 1902," " O.T.C. 1908" : and above the centre the Regimental crest. Shirburnians should know 'something of the history of the 39th and 54th.

Doorway of School House Dining Hall, 1912

In 1912. Mr Carrington gave the last of his benefactions in stone by putting up a replica of the doorway at the south-west corner of the School House dining hall which through the weathering of time had decayed beyond repair. The painted stone gave way to a marble slab with an incised chronogram, more enduring but less harmonious than the original, whose scattered members were left to lie neglected and swiftly perishing. The last visible portion, the centre piece with the arms, was sold as scrap for £2 in 1937. Sunt Jacrimae rerum.

Class-rooms, 1913

In 1913 four new class-rooms were built on to the block of 1883. Thus began the regretted disappearance of those lime trees whose languorous scent added to the magic of the School Courts when the evening suns of June made the Abbey splendid and serene. In the same year from the funds of the Corps, wisely accumulated sub rosa, a stone house was built for the Sergeant-Major in the south-west corner of the Paddock.

Bow House, 1921

For eight years there was a pause in building, but in 1921. activity started again. For a War Memorial the Abbey decided to restore the Lady Chapels to their original use, as Mr G. D. Wingfield Digby had purposed in 1860 (see p. xxvii): This terminated a 360 years occupation by the School, to which the preservation of the old fabric is due, and compelled the Governors to find an alternative site for a Masters' Common Room and lodgings for Assistant Masters and School HQ use servants. In anticipation they had bought the Sun Inn and an adjoining house, fronting the Parade at the south-east corner of the School House dining hall; and in 1921 these were converted into the Bow House, so called from the neighbouring archway. The ground floor has a common room, dining room and kitchen : above is other accommodation. Externally the building is attractive : but the internal arrangements are less satisfactory. A large wall on the east side of the old court was taken down, and other walls lowered ; while a back entrance was made to the School House from the Parade. The Victorian window of the old common room found a fresh home at the Preparatory School.

Devitt Workshop, 1921

In the same year a new workshop was put up at the south-east corner of the Fives Courts. Its walls inside and out are of beautiful Ham Hill stone cut large : and it is well lit and commodious. The inscription, which to the facts recorded adds an unusual touch of emotion, is as follows :

War Memorial, 1921

On the opposite side of the road to this most generous gift of a single Old Shirburnian rose the collective memorial to Old Shirburnians who fell in the Great War. Past and present members of the School, Governors, Masters, parents, and friends of Sherborne contributed to the funds: The nave and north aisle of the Chapel were lengthened, providing over one hundred additional seats: an ante-chapel and stairs were built at the north-west corner. The uncovered stairs were of course displaced, with the easy access to the lead roof on the west side of the courts: and even if a raven had been still in existence its morning Chapel perch for the receipt of offerings was gone. The old west door was replaced on the north side. The extension of the timber roof showed that the original walls were slightly out of alignment, the interval widening towards the west, as can be seen from the north doorway of the Little Court. During the operations the School enjoyed morning service in the Abbey. On the walls of the ante-chapel are incised the names of the Fallen in the order of their deaths, 221 in all. The inscription on a marble slab in the north wall read:

THIS CHAPEL WAS ENLARGED
AND THE ANTE-CHAPEL ADDED
IN 1920- 1922
IN LOVING MEMORY
OF THOSE SHIRBURNIANS
WHO LAID DOWN THEIR LIVES
IN THE GREAT WAR
1914- 1918

*Nor love thy life nor hate; but what thou liv'st
Live well-how long or short permit to Heaven.*

To these names were added those of Old Boys who were killed in the second Great War, 242 in all. In the ante-chapel are two revolving lecterns of oak, containing photographs and briefest records of the Fallen. So are united in one place of dedication the agonies of a double sacrifice.

An Old Shirburnian, the Right Rev. Henry Whitehead, D.D., Bishop of Madras, consecrated the memorial on 5 July 1922. It has been proved what a pleasure it can be for a small choir to sing at the top of the stairs.

Gate Tower and Class-rooms, 1923

Hard upon the completion of this work further additions were made on the north side of the Great Court. Two new class-rooms and a gate-tower with two more class-rooms above were built, and connected with the Porter's Lodge. The last of the lime trees were sacrificed and the 1853 gateway, on which imagination bestowed a venerable antiquity, was removed to the playing fields. The gateway with its timber roof makes a fine entrance: the tower is well proportioned and gives an impression of dignity and strength: and the whole block on the north side is a unit worthy to face the older buildings which it confronts. But it calls for the completion of the architect's original plans to fill in the gap in the north-east corner: in the eyes of not a few, desiring the impossible, the predominance of the stone, beautiful as it is, requires for its perfect setting the grassing of the Great Court with turf worthy of the long life of the monastery buildings.

Gymnasium, 1923

In the same year the greater part of the corrugated iron gymnasium, built in 1885, was taken down, and a new building of wood, faced with weather-boarding, was put up. It is excellent for its purpose though the ventilators are aesthetically lamentable. On many occasions, it served, with the aid of a stage, as a theatre, a strain both for actors and audience. The exigencies of war and the destruction by fire of all properties laboriously acquired closed this chapter of the School's acting.

Chapel Panelling, 1925

Two years later the walls of the nave and the north aisle of the Chapel were panelled by Mrs Arthur Devitt and her family in memory of the giver of the workshop. The lettering of the Psalm which runs round the length of the panelling is ornamental and the spelling is not that now recognized as orthodox: the difficulty of reading it makes it the more neglected.

New Organ, 1925

In the same year an organ was installed at the west end at the charges of Mr R. W. Macfarlane-Grieve, then an Assistant Master. The console was shifted to the south side of the choir, and the space originally occupied by the old organ is now a blank, and an architectural problem. The blowing is done by electricity, and occasionally fails, as did the old instrument through absence of the blower or puerile mischief. The Harper memorial window had to be transferred to the east end, and serves to point many a text, but is restless for the eye. Older generations will lament the disappearance of the former east window with its insinuating green serpent which was an object of quiet contemplation, and now shudders, unseen, unknown and unwashed, to the reverberations of the diapasons. The new organ, like all good things, exacted its sacrifice. Over the north door is hung a large painting in oils, entitled Easter Morn, the gift of the artist, H. A. Olivier (o.s.). Not even the Royal Academy would hang a picture so, but no other space could accommodate it.

Music School, 1926

. In 1926 the new Music School, was built on a piece of ground above Abbey Grange. It contains twelve practice rooms below, and an office and large music room above. The doorway, angles, and foundation course are of Ham Hill stone : as are the tops of the slight buttresses and two courses running round the upper part. The rest is roughly faced with cement, and perhaps it is as well that it stands by itself. It is honest and compact, and to its architect gave great satisfaction : but to many it suggests the toy buildings of childhood.

. Mr. Nowell Smith resigned at the close of 1927. To any one who reviews the work conceived and finished in the years of his headmastership it will be apparent that he has earned the title of a great builder in the long annals of Sherborne School ; to any one who looks at the buildings for which he was responsible it will be apparent how harmonious and dignified they are. Working with a Governing Body whose caution he infected with his own enthusiasm and whose support he justified by success, and having an architect of generous ideas who had planned for the School from 1895, he raised an enduring monument

With full right his initials are to be found on the south side of the gateway, with those of the architect, Sir Reginald Blomfield, and the arms of the then Chairman of the Governors : and the " Nisi Dominus frustra " expresses the source of that spiritual inspiration which he himself felt and sought to give : here and around here is his visible monumentum, and emphatically not in the nominal memorial the Sanatorium annexe, tucked away in an obscure corner, the dedication of which history must regard as one of the strange infelicities of the human mind in its puzzled search for the adequate and the just.

* Or for the benefit of those who have forgotten their Greek : " Then will our youth dwell in the land of health, amid fair sights and sounds ; and beauty, the effluence of fair works, will visit the eye and ear, like a healthful breeze from a pure region, and insensibly draw the soul even in childhood into harmony with the beauty of reason." (Plato, Republic 401 c, translated by Jowett, rather freely.)

Chapel Seating, etc., 1930

In 1930, as one of the memorials to G. M. Carey, himself an old boy, and Master for thirty years, oak choir seats, oak screen, pulpit and lectern were put up. In the main body of the Chapel oak pews in keeping with the choir have taken the place of the former benches which mildly protested at finding a secular home in the Bath.

But it was not until 1936 that activity restarted on the School buildings, not on a grand scale, but yet conferring definite benefits in various ways.

Squash Courts, 1936-7

Two courts for Squash Rackets were put up north of the newest five courts : one the gift of the Sherborne Pilgrims, and neither adding to the charm of Acreman Street. The Bath was cemented, both the area itself and the sidewalks ; and the apparatus installed for purifying the water has robbed the doctors of a hardy summer cause of complaint and the boys of the joy of scraping the side and floor -and paddling in the green and viscous slime.

Sanatorium Additions, 1937

To the difficult building of the Sanatorium a convalescent room was added, with accommodation above for extra patients : and as if to suggest that the whole structure invites a benefactor to pull it down and build another up to date, the exterior wall has not the reality of honest stone, and only in a dim light the appearance.

Biology Room, Geography and Metalwork Rooms, 1937

More satisfying is the new Biology Room built on top of the Physics Laboratory, the generous gift of Mr A. H. Trelawny-Ross (o.s.). The medical students are now delivered out of darkness into light in a place of their own, free from eviction. Geography and metalwork have also a separate building put up between the Workshop and the main-entrance to the Bath. The stone from dismantled cottages is of a deeper yellow than that from Ham Hill which forms the angles, window frames and entrance. If the mission is Cyclopean, from the five courts the building is one-eyed. The cupola which houses and conceals the ventilator is a feature.

With the mention of Mr Boughey's happily conceived lowering of the wall between the School House and the Studies : the re-setting of the roof of the Chapel and the Library : and the insertion of an ambry in the north side of the east wall of the Chapel, the gift of two O.S.S, the account to 1937 closed.

Since then a multitude of routine repairs have been carried out, the latest in 1949 to the top of the Gate Tower. It was found to be out of alignment and several courses were re-set, and broken stone replaced. In 1947 admirable self-contained staff quarters were built on top of the Nowell Smith annexe at the Sanatorium : and room was made below for an out-patients' department.

But the great work ahead, planned and approved but not yet begun, is the conversion of the present Big Schoolroom into a larger Memorial Hall as part of the War Memorial 1939- 1945 and as a Quatercent nary gift. The seating is to be reversed, a gallery built at the north end, and a T-shaped extension at the south. It will provide space for acting (with dressing rooms adjoining) and for cinematograph shows. It is estimated that the seating will be for at least 800. The extension will encroach some 8 feet on the side of the Courts and the road ; the lavatories must be placed elsewhere and the passage re-sited. The drawings of the new building promise a dignified addition. Sic crescat opus ad majorem Dei gloriam.

.The Air Raid

On 30 September 1940, shortly before 5 o'clock when everybody was in School, part of a large force of bombers travelling from west to east unloaded their freight upon Sherborne from the clouds. Bombs fell on the north side of Carey's, destroying the Devitt pavilion, two on Young's and the Upper, though the main pavilion escaped lightly. Lyon House had seven bombs round it ; 14,000 tiles were displaced, and for some time the house was uninhabitable. One of the squash racket courts was demolished by blast from Acreman Street. Of the next group one, a dud, fell on the soft ground west of the old Music School and is still there. A second exploded in Abbeylands garden close to the buildings, but only made a mess of the rockery. A third fell dead central between the Armoury and the Big Schoolroom, and one heavy and perhaps five light ones in a cluster on the north side of the courts. The effect on the Courts was incredibly slight, though the debris was flung high above the roofs. The Westcott memorial window suffered severely, but has been repaired after the original design. The blast must have gone upwards for the stone work was not even pitted and very few panes of glass shivered. But the explosion opposite the entrance to the Art School was very destructive. The blast travelled laterally and down past the Chapel and Workshops. All windows and doors with their frames on the east side were-blown in ; nearly all ceilings throughout the Carrington block had to be renewed ; 20,000 tiles had to be replaced. The interior of the Museum was a wreck, and scientific apparatus was broken. Much of the glass of the Fives Courts was loosened and crashed down. The roof of the Big Schoolroom must have been lifted by the explosions on either side ; the roof beams were blasted from their seating, the stone work of the windows was sucked outwards, and had to be drawn out, replaced, or bricked in. The room was not made safe for several months ; when the boarding was at last taken down clear glass took the place of coloured lights. The west window of the Chapel with its Green Devil, familiar object of wayward thoughts until it was shifted from the east end, was shattered beyond repair ; plain glass now admits what light it can behind the organ. The buttresses of the Big Schoolroom; and more especially the stone face of the Carrington Buildings were cruelly damaged. Splinters pitted a wide surface and even drilled one stone in tile wall of the ante-chapel. Some repairs have been done, but many scars remain : the Masonic and Westcott inscriptions have been badly mutilated. But the smooth finish of the original craftsmanship seems beyond recovery ; and Athena unhelmeted will retain her wounds. The main fabric, however, stood the test. Time alone will show whether more serious damage was done to the wall of the Carrington Buildings that took the main force of the blast. Whether these were " near misses " or " inners " the difference by a fraction in the timing of the release of the bombs or in the angle of the line of approach meant the saving of much of the School buildings and of the Abbey itself, and of casualties running into hundreds. From the hazards of aerial warfare it was a merciful deliverance : though the sirens sounded 368 times no more bombs fell within the boundaries of Sherborne, and the 15 air raid shelters never served their proper purpose.

The Quincentenary ended in the reign of Canon Ross Wallace. The Second World War forbade any great activity in building, though preparations for the extension of the Big Schoolroom properly belong to his time. The terrible anxieties of the war fell mainly on his broad shoulders, and amidst great uncertainties and hazards the School flourished and rose in reputation and numbers. He found on coming a great and greatly loved institution: to have left it greater is his monumentum.

THE STATUTES.

THE earliest School Statutes of which any record exists were drawn up in 1565 ; they were based on the "Articles of Powle Schole," i.e. on the scheme framed by Dean Colet for his Grammar School beside St Paul's Cathedral in London. No trace of them now remains except the bill for engrossing them which amounted to ten shillings.

The Statutes next enacted were drawn up in 1592; with the advice of Richard Fletcher, Bishop of Bristol, the man who, as Dean of Peterborough, attended Mary, Queen of Scots, on the scaffold. These Statutes are in the Library in very fair preservation, engrossed on vellum and sealed with the Bishop's seal.

In 1650 fresh Statutes were enacted by order of the Commonwealth authorities, but not a trace of them remains except the bill for engrossing them which amounted to twenty-five shillings.

In 1660, after the great quarrel between the Governors and the Headmaster, Dr Birstall, Bishop Ironside of Bristol drew up a fresh body of Statutes which the Governors refused to accept. The draft of these Statutes is in the case in the Library, and is in excellent preservation. They contain the first version of the present School Prayer.

In 1679 Bishop Gulston of Bristol induced the Governors to accept the proposed Statutes of 1660, or rather an emended edition of them dated 1663. These Statutes are very interesting indeed, and under them the School was governed for more than a century. They are preserved in the Library.

In 1791 new Statutes were enacted by the advice of Christopher Wilson, Bishop of Bristol, and are not very different from those of 1679. These Statutes are in the Library.

In 1827, soon after Dr Lyon's accession to the Headmastership, a fresh body of Statutes was enacted with the advice of Robert Gray, Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol. They contain an alternative School Prayer which is never used. These Statutes are in the Library.

In 1851, on Dr Harper's arrival, another body of Statutes was drawn up with the advice of James Henry Monk, Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol. They appear to be the work in the main of Dr Harper, and they continued in force till 16 May 1871, when the new Scheme, drawn up in consequence of the Endowed Schools' Act of 1869, came into force. These Statutes are in the Library.

The Scheme of 1871 entirely altered both the personnel and the status of the Governors (see the article on that Body) and transferred the Visitorial Power from the Bishop of Bristol to the Sovereign, to be exercised only through and by the Charity Commissioners. It also abolished both the "Usher" and the "Foundationers." A short Amended Scheme was added to it in 1885.

This Scheme was revised and brought up to date by a new Scheme made by the Board of Education in 1913, and an Amending Scheme dealing principally with finance in 1922.

THE GOVERNING BODY

THE Governing Body created by the Charter of 1550 was a Corporation, with a common seal, holding certain lands as described in the account of the growth of the School and its buildings. After the Endowed Schools Act was passed in 1869, the first School dealt with was ours: By the Scheme of 1871, drawn up in consequence of that Act :

All lands and hereditaments, not being copyhold, belonging to the Trust, and all terms, estates, and interests therein, shall from the date of this Scheme vest in the Official Trustee of Charity Lands and his successors : And all stock in the public funds and other securities belonging to the Trust shall be transferred to and vest in the Official Trustees of Charitable Funds, by whom the dividends and income arising therefrom shall be from time to time paid to the Governors or their order. (Scheme, § 25.)

From and after the date of this Scheme, the existing Corporation of the Governors of the possessions, revenues, and goods of the School of King Edward VI in Sherborne, in the county of Dorset, shall be dissolved, and except as herein otherwise expressly provided, all property, rights, and powers vested in that Corporation shall be transferred to and vest in the Governors created by this Scheme. (Scheme, § 29.)

From and after the date of this Scheme, all rights and powers reserved to, belonging to, or claimed by, or capable of being exercised by, the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, or any other person as Visitor of this Trust, shall be transferred to Her Majesty, and exercised only through and by the Charity Commissioners for England and Wales. (Scheme, § 30.)

The owner, therefore, in the eyes of the law, of our real estate is the Official Trustee of Charity Lands ; the owners of any stock or other securities which we have are the Official Trustees of Charitable Funds. Any property beside the above is vested in the Governors, who are the managers of all the property, subject to the control of the Charity Commissioners.

The present Governing Body is not a Corporation ; the Governors are rather in the position of Managers or Managing Trustees-Managers for that part of the School property not vested in them, Managing Trustees for that which is.

The number of the Governors is sixteen ; of these sixteen there are three ex-officio Governors, viz. : the Lord-Lieutenant of the county of Dorset, or some person named by him ; the Bishop of Salisbury, or some person named by him; and the Vicar of Sherborne. Of the remaining thirteen, five are Representative.

Governors ; four of these five are elected by Members of Parliament representing the county and borough constituencies of Devon, Dorset, Somerset, and Wilts ; each of these Governors holds office for four years, and every year one retires, but may be re-elected. The fifth Representative Governor holds office for five years, and is elected by the Masters of the School ; he may be re-elected. The remaining eight Governors hold office for ten years, and are called Co-optative. A Co-optative Governor is appointed by the other Governors at their first ensuing meeting after a vacancy ; he too may be re-elected.

The following is a list of Governors from 1550 :

BOARDING HOUSES

THERE is no record of boys- boarding with any thaster other than the Headmaster before 1835. From th tt year until about 1847 the Rev. T. James boarded a few boys in what is now the private part of A6l;)ey]-i:o:Use.. From.1855 to 1860,the Rev. J. T. Pearse had a few boarders in the House on Greenhill which afterwards, much enlarged, became " Clifton's" and " Price's." From 1858 onwards a few boys boarded also with the Rev. A. C. Clapin in the house north-west of the gateway and south of the present gymnasium. The story of this house is told more fully in the article on the Preparatory School. In 1861 Mr A. M. Curteis opened Westbury House as a boarding house. (Of this house also more is told in the Preparatory School article.) In 1868 Mr Curteis reined Abbey House, enlarged it, and. trans-ferred his boys- there.. In 1864 the Rev. W. B. Stanford started a boarding house at the corner of Newland and Cheap Street;- he was succeeded in 1868 by the Rev. P. R. Clifton who in the same year moved to what had been Mt Pearse's house on Greenhill. On Mr Clifton's death "iri ):).872-the house passed to the Rev.:H. P. Price, who held it until1890 when it was given up. It is the house facing so.uth next door to Abbot's Fee, which latter house formed the private part of it. In 1865 the Rev. O. W. Tancock transformed the old Angel Hotel on Greenhill into a boarding house and re-named it " The Green." (This house was presented to the School in 1929 by Sir Edward (now Lord) Iliffe whose two sons had been members 9fit.) In 1 71the"Rev. A. Wood s arteda_small bO:arding house in Newland ; he succeeded Mr Curteis at Abbey House in 1876, when his Newland boys were transferred to " Price's." The_ ye.ar 872 s 'Y the_a_qdi i9n of two more of .the pres.ent b arding houses-Abbeylands by Mr W. L. Hetherington, and The,Retreat J(l)ow Harper House) by the Rev. J. Blanch.. In 1883 Mr W.: B. Wildman opened a small house in Newland, from which in 1885 he transferred his boarders to a new house which he built in Westbury. This house was given up "in 1891 when it became the present Convent. In 1910 the Governors built Lyon House which :was opened in the following year, and in 1920 Mr G. O'Hanlon started Westcott House ; he formed it by enlarging a private house beyond recognition and afterwards presented it to the School.

The rest of the history of the present houses can be told more simply by a list of Housemasters. Either through presentation or purchase they are all now the property of the School.

Until 1946 the Headmaster for the time being had always been in charge of the School House but in that year he ceased to be so. In 1948 the present scheme of the control of the Houses was <:ompleted.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

THE formation of the Preparatory School, and its subsequent separation from the School itself, were effected gradually.

From 1858 onwards the Rev. A. C. Clapin boarded a few boys in the house (afterwards for many years the Music House) adjoining the gardener's cottage north-west of the School Gate. Between 1863 and 1866 he passed on his older boys (probably not all at the same time) to other Houses, and retained only the youngest, who were thenceforward taught apart from the main School together with the youngest day-boys. All those, however, who entered the Preparatory up to and including the second half-year of 1870 counted from their date of entry as members of the School and are included in this Register. From that year, which is the year in which "Foundationers" ceased to be elected, boys who entered the Preparatory did not count as members of the School unless, and until, they joined the School itself. In 1872 Mr Clapin moved to Westbury House, now occupied by the Buffalo Club. He gave up the Preparatory in 1880, but remained a master at the School itself for ten more years.

The next Headmaster of the Preparatory was Mr W. H. Blake of Jesus College, Cambridge. Until 1885 the Preparatory remained under the control of the School, but in that year Mr Blake built Acreman House at his own cost, and transferred his boarders there, and from that year onward the Preparatory, though closely associated with the School; has been entirely independent of it.

Mr Littleton C. Powys (o.s.) of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, followed Mr Blake as Headmaster in 1905. In 1913 Mr Powys greatly enlarged his borders by the purchase of the adjoining estate of Netherton and other lands.

He was succeeded in 1923 by Mr F. R. Lindsay of Trinity College, Dublin, and the Rev. A. W. Hooper (o.s.) of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, as joint Headmasters. Mr. Hooper left to take another School in 1929, since when Mr. Lindsay has been sole Headmaster. The present numbers are just short of 120.

INTRODUCTION TO THE ENTRIES

OF the Monastery School no records of names exist; and the only two possible Shirburnians of those times of whom we know anything might (to bring them in line with their successors) be registered thus :

Circa 860

Aelfred, son of Aethelwulf, King of West Saxons; b. 849; (Town); succeeded brother as King 871 ; defeated Danes at Ethandun 878, and in many minor actions ; extended his rule over large parts of Mercia ; founded Royal Navy ; translated Boetius's Consolation Of Philosophy, etc. ; d. 901.

Circa 1065

Harding, Stephen, son of Mr. Harding (O.S. ?), Sherborne; b. about 1055 ; (a) ; travelled in Scotland, Italy and France; monk at Moleme Monastery, Burgundy, 1078-90; founded Citeaux Abbey and some twelve other Abbeys ; introduced the Cistercian Rule ; d. 1134.

Harding is known to have lived at a very youthful age in the Monastery and may fairly be regarded as the earliest known School House boy ; so he is marked (a).

The rest is silence. We learn, however, from the carving on a Miserere stall in the Abbey that discipline was enforced in the traditional manner, and the dress of the executant would appear to confirm the belief that the Master in monastic times was a layman and not a monk.. There was probably always an Usher as well, as there certainly was at the end of the period. There was no other School in the place, and Sherborne was by no means a-small village.

PART I

Names marked in this section with an asterisk are found inscribed-in many cases with a date added-on the oak panelling or on the stone walls of the present School House Dining Hall, formerly the Schoolroom. At the end of Part I is a list of names which have recently been discovered in the panelling of the School House Dining Hall.

The names given under the year 1686 are taken from "An account of yc Persons names who contributed to the Brief bearing date the 5th day of March 85o " (i.e. 1686) "to the Charitable reliefe of the distressed French Protestants collected ye 9th day of May 1686." This document was discovered by Mr. W. B. Wildman in the Muniment Room of Sherborne Abbey, and the notes added to many of the names are also the result of his researches. After two pages of the names of townfolk there follows a list of "schollars" of the King's School who contributed. Those who have been identified with any degree of certainty had their homes away from Sherborne, and Mr. Wildman thought that the list contained only the "tablers" or boarders who subscribed. This view is supported by the fact that very few of the boys' names are repeated among those of the townsfolk. If he was correct in his belief, it will be seen that the boarders at this time numbered at least forty-seven, and some boarders—so we learn from the Governors' Minute Books—had recently been removed to "Winchester School" as the result of Mr. J. Goodenough (Headmaster 1670-83) joining in the Exclusion Plot.

Unfortunately the great majority of the boys who were at the School before 1823 are as yet untraced. It is known, as will be seen, that a good many of the Governors were Old Shirburnians, and they were no-doubt day-boys.

PARTS II AND III

The earliest printed Roll-list in existence is dated 1835; but the MS. Boarders' Book of Dr. Lyon's House begins in 1823, the first year of his Headmastership. The Register of Foundationers contains entries as early as 1825, but was carelessly compiled.

(F) after a name denotes Foundationer. The Charter of Edward VI's Foundation established the School for the free education of boys in "Grammatica" (i.e. Latin and Greek), but did not restrict the privilege to local boys. Boys born in the town were indeed exempted by the Statutes of 1592 from the entrance-fee of "twelve pence," but this was the only special privilege assigned to them. Probably most, if not all, of the "tablers" or boarders, as well as the day-boys, of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries received their tuition free of charge. It was not until 1827 that a clause was introduced into the Statutes (apparently with no justification) restricting the privilege of free education to boys introduced by the "Warden" (or Chairman of the Governors) from the town and neighbourhood of Sherborne. Naturally after 1827 nearly all the Foundationers were day-boys. Foundationers received not only free education but free books. But the free tuition was confined to "Grammatica," and when other subjects began to be taught a charge was made for them. The Endowed Schools Act of 1869 and the subsequent New Scheme of 1871 abolished Foundationers and established in their place a number of scholarships of the value of the full tuition fee for boys residing anywhere. At the time of their abolition there were fifty-three Foundationers on the Roll, but the average number during the previous half-century was between thirty and forty.

In the lists up to 1850 boys not marked (F) or (J) were for the most part members of the Headmaster's House, but the lists of Foundations are incomplete, and probably a few more should be marked (F).

Prefects are not distinguished in the School Lists until 1881, though a few earlier ones are marked in the MS. Admission Book which begins in 1872. But the Prefectorial system at Sherborne is of very early- origin. There is an unsigned article in the Shirburnian for April 1894, probably from the pen of Mr. Wildman, from which we learn that the Statutes of 1592 laid down that the " Scholemaster Ussher muste . wekely . appoint twoe or more Impositors to marke and present the faults, and wekely take a reckonyng of the Impositors." And in the Statutes of 1679 provision is made for " foure Prepositors ; one for discipline in the Schoole to see all Schollars demeane themselves regularly there ; - the second for manners both in the Schoole and abroad any where ; the third for the Church and the Fields ; the fourth to bee Ostiarius to sitt by the Doore to give answe to strangers and keepe the rest from runninge out. . . . And every morninge att the Master's first comeinge into the Schoole they are to present him in writeinge in Latine the several faults, wth the names of the boys offendinge, committed the day before, wch papers so left wth the Master shall be a sufficient testimony agt them to the Master." The Master would then summon the defaulters and " discreatly correct them." These transactions took place at six o'clock every morning. The walls of the School House Dining Hall have seen and heard much.

When Old Shirburnian have been followed to the School by their sons, the Editor has tried to mark the fact under both entries; but there are many probable yet not quite certain instances, especially in early years, which he has left unmarked. Similarly in the Index he has tried_ to indicate which boys of the same name were brothers.

Heads of the School may be assumed to have been Heads of their own Houses as well. Other Heads of Houses have been noted so far as they can be ascertained, but the records, even in comparatively modern times, are very incomplete, especially in the School House.

Non-academical School distinctions have been confined to " xi," " xv," " viii " and " hockey " which has now reached the status of a School game ; the fact is only noted in the personal records in the case of those who have received Colours. In the list of School teams at the end of the book an attempt is made to indicate those who were given Colours and those who were not ; it is believed that these are approximately correct, but earlier hockey records are scattered and meagre. Records of the O.T.C., Athletics, etc., will be found at the end of the book.

In the matter of Football Fifteens the season is indicated by one date only, the first; e.g., " xv 89" denotes membership of the team in the season 1889-90. Since about 1893 the xv has hardly ever played matches in the Lent Term.

The adequate presentation of University records has given rise to some difficulty and a certain amount of inconsistency may be apparent. The Editor has left the details as they appear in previous editions untouched and has asked those whose record is published for the first time to report a First Class only. It may be that these details are not altogether complete.

A few odd items are inserted here which cannot be worked in elsewhere:

- 1836 The washing arrangements of the School House consisted of a pump and a trough in the open air in front of the entrance to the Bell Buildings, near the existing stone trough. The time-table was simple : "We did Greek all the morning, and Latin all the afternoon."
- 1859 First number of the Shirburnian.
- 1879 First celebration of Commemoration.
- 1905 The 1200th anniversary of the foundation of the Bishopric and of the School was celebrated in the Sherborne Pageant.
- 1906 Complaints in the town that the food shops were overcrowded led to the building of the Tuck Shop. Previously old Mr. Tuffin and his son used to bring baskets of buns into the Courts in Break.
- 1910 Abolition of the Sunday top-hat.
- 1942 Upper VI instituted.

A note on the number of boys in the School at various periods may be of interest. In 1686, as will have been seen above, if the record is correct, there were at least forty-seven boarders and probably some twenty or thirty day-boys. It is not likely that the numbers increased during the eighteenth century, and certainly there were fewer boys during the first twenty years of the nineteenth century. Under Dr. Lyon (1823-45) the numbers rose to about 140 (School House 85, Mr. James's 15, Town 40). During the next five years, however, chiefly owing to Mr. Penrose's illness, they decreased very quickly, and Dr. Harper on his arrival found only forty boys (thirty-eight day-boys and two boarders)<sup>1</sup>; but he brought with him some thirty more from his former School at Cowbridge. The story of the School's growth under his rule is told, all too briefly, by Mr. Wildman in his description of the Buildings. It must be enough to add here that it was Dr. Harper who inspired Lord Digby to make his most generous gift of the Abbey Buildings, and that during his Headmastership the numbers grew swiftly and steadily to 150 in 1858, 210 (still including boys of all ages) in 1868, and 280 (excluding the Preparatory School) on his retirement in 1877. In the third edition of the Register the Editor remarks that the numbers continued at about the same level for some years and nothing occurred to interfere with the School's prosperity till his arrival in 1888; the numbers then rapidly fell to 140 before he left in 1893. Throughout Canon Westcott's Headmastership the recovery was slow but sure, and there were 200 in the School when Mr. Nowell Smith came in 1909. During the following eighteen years Mr. Nowell Smith exactly doubled that number to 400. Since then, during the Headmastership of Canon Ross Wallace, the numbers have risen rapidly and in 1949 reached 555.

Houses (other than the School House) are marked until 1900 by the Housemaster's name or by an abbreviation for it. After 1900 they are marked by the letters familiar to all later generations.

SCHOOL MUSIC

The Musical Society came into being in 1871, since when it has maintained an unbroken record of enthusiastic and vigorous activity. In that year Dr-Harper, the Headmaster; appointed to the Staff Mr J. R. Sterndale-Bennett ostensibly as a mathematical master (he was 18th Wrangler), but in reality to encourage the art and practice of vocal and instrumental music throughout the School. Evidence of the happiness and wisdom of this appointment can be seen in the account of the early days of the Society by an original member, the Reverend A. W. Upcott, who wrote in the 1900 edition of the Sherborne Register : " The Sherborne School Musical Society was born, I think, in the Spring Term of the year 1871. Mr Sterndale-Bennett had just been appointed mathematical master, and not long after a few of us assembled in a room under the Schoolroom (now part of the Lower Library) and there, with the School harmonium for an instrument.; and Mr Sterndale-Bennett for instructor, we attacked ' Hail Judaea, happy land.' From that time music began to flourish at Sherborne." He also pays a warm tribute to the new " music master " for what he learnt of music at Sherborne, recollecting that the first concert was given in the old Town Hall (now demolished) in March 1872, the performance consisting of selections from Judas Maccabaeus and Mendelssohn's Lauda Sion.

In 1873 another significant appointment was made. Mr L. N. Parker arrived in the middle of the Christmas Term to deputize for the piano master, who had fallen ill, for the rest of the term. He stayed for 19 years ! As he himself says in his fascinating biography, Several of my Lives, he was something of a novelty by reason of his antecedents. Born in France in 1852 of American descent, after fourteen years of nomadic existence he was sent to England, and in 1869 he entered the Royal Academy of Music, of which Sterndale-Bennett's father was Principal, to study operatic singing and the piano. He was just twenty-one when he arrived at Sherborne and he brought with him the air of a larger and more cosmopolitan life, which soon shook the cloistered calm of Sherborne into a vigorous activity. Of mercurial temperament, original in thought, ambitious to a degree, his unflinching energy and enthusiasm carried him through early failures to unchallenged success. On Sterndale-Bennett's appointment to the Headmastership of Derby School in 1877, Parker took his place as the official director of School Music. Not only was he busy in the School but in the town and neighbourhood and even in London. The programmes of the Society during his time, although built round the Oratorio then so fashionable, show him to have been a musician of wide and catholic taste. Staple works were Messiah, Elijah, St Paul, and Judas Maccabaeus, in addition to works of less calibre and merit such as The Last Judgement, God Thou Art Great, The Woman of Samaria, The Prodigal Son, and The Golden Legend. But perhaps Parker will chiefly be remembered as the collaborator with James Rhoades in the composition of the School Songs, which for many years were a corporate and traditional feature of concert programmes, but which apart from the Carmen and the Football Song are no longer heard, to the regret of many of the older generations of Shirburnians. The words of the Carmen were written by Edward Mallet Young, who succeeded Dr Harper as Headmaster in 1878. Its robust dignity makes it worthy to challenge comparison with any School Song of similar character and purpose in the land.

In 1892 Parker resigned to enter on a wider and equally successful career as a playwright and impresario. But his connection with Sherborne was not yet over. At the instigation of the Reverend Arthur Field, for many years the Honorary Secretary of the Old Shirburnian Society, he composed and produced the Sherborne Pageant in 1905 to commemorate the Twelfth Centenary of the founding of Sherborne Abbey and School by St. Ealdhelm. For this he not only won the eternal gratitude of both Town and School, but started a wholly admirable fashion which for the next few years did much to revive in England the spirit of pride of place and local patriotism. Similar pageants were produced in many historical towns up and down the country, some of which Parker himself directed. In his latter days he lived for many years in Switzerland, but during the last War he retired to Bishopsteignton where he died peacefully in 1944 at the age of 91. A tablet in the, School Chapel near the pulpit, the gift of many Old Shirburnian friends and admirers, was dedicated to his memory by the Bishop of Salisbury, Dr Neville Lovett, o.s., on June 23, 1946. Parker's name will recall to many that of a fellow-worker equally devoted to Sherborne and its music. All through Parker's time and for many years afterwards Charles Regan was the chief instructor in stringed and wind instruments. By incessant and devoted labour, and sometimes out of very poor material, he created and maintained a School Orchestra which was not properly revived until-recently, since he left us in 1911.

Charles Hodgson, who succeeded Parker, had already been a Master since 1881. An Old Harrovian, and nurtured in the musical tradition of John Farmer, he was in no sense a professional musician, but a cultured and enthusiastic amateur. For twenty-four years as honorary Director of Music he brought to the discharge of his self-appointed task unflinching zeal, a kindling enthusiasm, and an infinite capacity for taking pains. His programmes show him to have been less daring than his predecessor, but there were compensations. Indeed, there was a distinct advance in the quality of instrumental music performed, notably from 1903 onwards. This, to a considerable extent, was owing to the musicianly influence of Mr. A. F. Tester, who came to Sherborne in that year as Hodgson's lieutenant. Hodgson had a happy knack of endearing himself and his artistic aims to a wide circle of musical friends, and the still happier gift of attracting Old Boys to return and help him in the Society's concerts-notably R. St J. Ainslie, A. C. Broadbent, W. H. P. Price, and Clive Carey, all of whom did yeoman service for many years.

The upheaval of the War and its complementary difficulties caused a succession of appointments on Hodgson's resignation in 1916. Mr A. J. Sainsbury took charge for three years until Tester's return from war service. But ill-health cut short what promised to be a period of really successful activity and Tester was compelled to resign. A number of temporary appointments followed until 1924, when Mr. Nowell Smith, a devoted lover of music, who in the face of many difficulties never ceased to believe in and actively encourage the musical life of the School, appointed Mr. B. J. F. Picton, who came to Sherborne with twenty years' experience, having been successively Director of Music at Loretto, Cheltenham, and Fettes. An ex-chorister of Wells Cathedral and an old pupil of C. H. H. Parry, Picton plunged into the task of reviving the interest of the School with tremendous energy. He did not make the mistake of flying too high or of demanding such an exalted standard of performance as to frighten away the uninitiated from the joys and mysteries of choral singing. But gradually, through the smaller works of Parry, such as Blest Pair of Sirens, up to Brahms's Requiem and excerpts from the Mass in B minor he worked up the interest and enthusiasm of the School as a whole and of the Society in particular to enable them to enjoy the very difficult but wholly satisfying unaccompanied motets of Byrd, Weelkes, Tomkins and others, until at the time of his retirement in 1946 the hour's music in the Abbey at Commemoration was an outstanding feature of the School's musical endeavour. This was originally tried out during the war to take the place of the Commemoration Play, but it soon established itself as an essential annual event. Nor did Picton neglect modern music. Amongst other works, he put on Dyson's In Honour of the City. No volunteer for the Society was ever refused. This policy, though it had its dangers, was abundantly justified by results-not only in the standard of performance which he obtained, but also because of the large number of boys who shared in a corporate musical effort which they will always remember with joy and gratitude.

Picton excelled in training boys of moderate musical ability to produce results which few would have thought possible. The number of Choral and Organ Scholarships which boys obtained at Oxford and Cambridge is a further testimony to his valuable work for the School. Until the appointment of Mr. C. J. Leighton as assistant in 1944, with the primary task of reviving the School Orchestra, Picton had no resident helper during his term of office. Leighton had been Director of Music at Aldenham for seven years and was a fine pianist.

On Picton's retirement in 1946, an Old Boy, Dr. R. E. Woodham, who was assistant Director at Bradfield, was appointed by Canon Wallace to succeed him. He stayed for only one year before accepting an appointment at Glasgow University under Dr. Bullock. But his year was notable for two developments. In March he conducted two performances by the Society in the Abbey of Handel's Messiah, with the aid of well-known professional soloists and the Kathleen Riddick String Orchestra. Also, he inspired a Music Club, which catered for the keenest musicians in the School, with its headquarters in the Music School, and which was run by the boys themselves.

Mr. Leighton stepped into his place with Mr. G. E. Wiles from Uppingham as his assistant, and there was every prospect of maintaining and of increasing the musical talent and interest of the School. Unhappily, however, Leighton's health broke down and he died suddenly on January 1, 1949, after an operation. But during his short span he was responsible for a highly successful broadcast performance of the annual Carol Service in the Abbey in December 1947, and many thought that the Carol Service which he directed a few weeks before he died was even better. He initiated the School Concert Club, whereby leading professional musicians could be invited to give concerts, to the number of six a year, to such members of the School and Town as wished to hear them.

He maintained Dr Woodham's policy of producing major Choral works in the Abbey with Brahms's Requiem and Bach's Whitsun Oratorio, which were performed in May 1948 as part of the School's effort in support of the Bishop of Salisbury's Diocesan Appeal. At short notice Mr Wiles carried through most successfully two performances of Mendelssohn's Elijah in the Abbey in March, 1949, with professional soloists and an orchestra composed partly of professional players and partly of amateurs, including some members of the School Orchestra. The new Director of Music is Mr. R. B. Ferry, A.F.C., Mus.Bac., A.R.C.O.

In conclusion, it is only right to record that the work of the Director of Music has been made easier and more productive of results in recent years by reason of the attitude of the Headmaster, Canon Wallace. It was through his keen interest and enthusiasm that it became possible to have a resident assistant Director of Music, to revive the School Orchestra, and to bring about other developments. Also his personal example in attending practices of the Society has done a great deal to make and keep it popular with the School. From time to time the Directors of Music, particularly Mr. Picton, have recorded their gratitude to various members of the Staff for their support, notably to Messrs. G. O'Hanlon, E. Davis, P. E. H. Parry-Jones, R. S. Thompson, D. B. Eperson, R. M. M. Barlow, and A. B. Gourlay.

THE WESTCOTT ART SCHOOL

The first permanent Art Master was Mr. A. D. Longmuir (1871- 1890) who bequeathed to the School a considerable sum from which have been established the Prizes for Drawing and English Literature which bear his name. He was followed by Mr. Henry Hudson (1890 -1923) during whose time the present Art School was built as a memorial to Canon Westcott. Mr Leonard Davies, who was Art Master from 1923 until he retired owing to ill-health in 1941, did much to encourage good craftsmanship and drawing in the School. He was followed by the present Art Teacher, Mrs Gervis. Art is now taken in both School and Higher Certificate examinations. A lively interest in the subject is shown throughout the School and there is an exhibition of the varied work of the boys at Commemoration. Despite wartime difficulties the Art School has been fitted with fluorescent lighting and a first nite epidiastroscope added to its equipment.

OTHER SCHOOL SOCIETIES

There are very many of these, some permanent, some ephemeral. An alphabetical list would begin-Angling, Archaeological, Astronomical, etc. Considerations of space will not allow mention of them all, but two must not be omitted.

"THE DUFFERS" Literary Society was founded by Mr. H. R. King in 1898. Its object was and is "to keep its members alive to all that is best in English Literature, and to do this in as happy and congenial surroundings as possible." For one hundred consecutive terms Mr. King was its Chairman and guiding spirit. He was gladly and willingly assisted by Mrs. King and many other kind hostesses, and the happy Sunday afternoon gatherings and terminal Shakespeare readings not only fulfilled their purpose but remain among the pleasantest memories of all those who were privileged to be members. Since Mr. King's retirement in 1931 the Society has been successively under Mr Macfarlane-Grieve and Mr Thompson. The hierophant being dead, and also sui generis, the twentieth century deliberately avoided the attempt to maintain the old atmosphere and circumstance so alarming to candidates for initiation, so dear to the initiated. But if he would lament the absence of the mixed society, the knitting needles and the Shakespeare with its contretemps and surreptitious humour, he would rejoice in the multiplication of Duffers, and the high standard and wide scope of papers and the greater frequency of imported readers.

In the Summer Term, 1948, the Society celebrated its Jubilee year with three Papers bearing special reference to the Founder and the Society, read by three people who had a special link with one or other or both. They were Mr. Francis King, the Founder's third son, a master at Winchester; Mr Cecil Day-Lewis, his son-in-law and an ex-member of the Society ; and Mr O'Hanlon, a colleague and a member of the Society for a great many years. Mr King's paper was strictly biographical and full of humorous touches. B9th Mr Day-Lewis and Mr O'Hanlon, besides giving vivid and amusing impressions of their subject, offered helpful advice on the value and purpose of the Society in this our day. It is hoped to have the Papers printed in book form. At the end of the term Twelfth Night was read by a number of former members to present members at Cumnor House on Greenhill, Mr King's last residence. Among those who took part were Mrs Carey, Mr and Mrs Day-Lewis, Sir Nicolas. de Villiers, V. C. Clinton-Baddeley, G. O'Hanlon, O. D. Holt, A. H. Trelawny-Ross, and J. Whittingdale; and of the present staff, Mr J. H. Randolph and Mr R. S. Thompson.

The INTERPRETES are a second Society which merits record. By the ingenious introduction of a little medieval ritual and phraseology Mr Ralph Butler, the Sixth Form Tutor in 1913, succeeded in attracting a select few of the Classical VI to form a sort of secret society for the study of the Classics in their spare time. A few masters arid boys, under the presidency of a boy Interpres Maximus and a master Logothetes, met together in comfortable armchairs, with light refreshments not far away, an<-). read at full speed immense quantities of Greek and Latin literature, prepared beforehand, it may be admitted, not without the aid of translations. The method may have its critics, but there is no doubt that the Domini Interpretes of those days had at least a nodding acquaintance with a good deal more of Classical literature than the average Public School boy.

When Mr Butler left, Mr G. G. Morris, Mr G. O'Hanlon, Mr R. W. Macfarlane-Grieve and Mr H. Elder acted in succession as Logothetes. Under Mr G. G. Green (1935-39) essays and debates on Classical subjects took the place of unexpounded translation.

The War years brought several changes of Logothetes. Under Mr Bransbury (1939-41), Mr Moule (1941), and Mr Pearson (1942) the reading of weekly papers continued. Mr Box (1943-48) restored the practice of rapid translation, varied by an occasional talk or paper. Throughout the war the Society seldom failed to meet, though its numbers were often small, and its place and time of meeting liable to change. Now under Mr Anderson its programme is a happy blend of the two strains, translation and papers read by members or visitors. And meetings are once more held in the house of the Logothetes, with refreshments at the end.

CADET CORPS

The Cadet Corps was formed as a Cadet Company of the Dorsetshire Regiment in September, 1888. Captain W. B. Wileman was the first Commanding Officer, with Lieutenant C. S. Whitehead and 2nd Lieutenant T. C. Rogerson (then a boy in the School) as his subalterns. The Corps wore the scarlet uniform of the Regiment with helmets and white leather belts. Sherborne was one of the four Schools represented in the first Public Schools Provisional Battalion at Churn Camp in 1889. The Corps' formation unfortunately coincided with the School's temporary fall in numbers, nor was there in those days the same public opinion which later on induced almost everyone to join. But Captain Wildman's courage and enthusiasm overcame all obstacles, and when he retired in 1910 he left the Corps efficient and prosperous, containing then, as now, practically the whole School. The great majority of Old Shirburnians who served in the Great War must have received from him their first instruction in the art of warfare. Before he left he saw the change from scarlet to khaki in 1903, and from a Cadet Company of the Dorsetshire Regiment to a contingent of the Officers' Training Corps in 1908.

Since then the Corps has grown steadily in numbers with the growth of the School. Its title was changed in 1940 from Officers' Training Corps to Junior Training Corps, and again in 1948 to Combined Cadet Force (including Sea Cadets).

The outbreak of war in 1939 brought drastic changes in uniform and system of training. In 1942 battle dress replaced the old kersey, breeches and puttees, while close order drill practically disappeared, to make way for realistic field training by sections. The transformation was nearly completed by 1945, when Lieutenant-Colonel Randolph retired after commanding with distinction for 16 years. Since then the Corps has continued to prosper in numbers and efficiency. Now in 1949 there are some 500 cadets organised in four companies, and a naval section; nearly all the 12 officers have had varied war experience, and several have graduated on staff courses; the Band has been restored and enlarged, and combines with a Demonstration Drill Squad to introduce Commemoration; and the annual competitions for House Cups on the Miniature Range produce keen rivalry and high averages.

SEA CADET CORPS

The Sea Cadet Corps was established in the School in September, 1942, and was the second such corps to be founded in any Public School, Harrow having started in the previous term. The Commanding Officer in the early days was Commander C. L. Brendon, R.N. (retd.); upon his retirement in 1945 the command was taken over by Lieutenant K. F. F. Ranken, R.N.V.R., who had been Second in Command since the unit was started. In January, 1949, a second officer, Sub-Lieutenant P. C. Boissier, joined the unit.

The aim of the officers and instructors has been to give a good grounding in as many branches of naval training as possible and to prepare the cadets for the various examinations demanded by the Admiralty. Cadets may join the unit at the age of 16, provided they have passed Certificate A, Part I. During their second term as Sea Cadets they take the Able Seaman Examination and, if successful, the Leading Seaman and the Petty Officer Examinations in their third and fourth terms respectively.

The subjects taught include Signalling (Morse, Semaphore and International Code), Knots, Splicing, Sounding, Anchor Work, Boatwork, Blocks and Tackles, Pilotage, Rule of the Road at Sea and many others; practical work includes the rigging of Derricks, Sheer Legs and Breeches Buoys. Field Days are usually devoted to practical work at home or visits to Portland for sea trips; in addition to these trips, visits have been paid to various warships at Portland and elsewhere. The Summer Training Camps are held nowadays in warships at Portsmouth or Plymouth.

The unit has recently ceased to be an independent Sea Cadet Corps and has become a Royal Naval Section of the Combined Cadet Force; the change has not affected the syllabus in any way nor has the naval uniform had to be relinquished.

Over 150 cadets have been admitted to the unit since its foundation and the present strength is 24.

AIR TRAINING CORPS

No. 617 Squadron, Air Training Corps, was formed in February, 1941, and comprised at first a Schools' Flight, consisting of about 25 cadets from Sherborne School, with nine from Foster's School. Shortly afterwards a Town Flight was recruited, instruction and training being provided for it on two evenings a week.

The total number in the Squadron rose to somewhat over 100 cadets in 1942-43 when the need for R.A.F. Aircrew was at its peak. Once the R.A.F. reached saturation in 1943-44, and it was no longer possible to guarantee entry into the R.A.F. to every A.T.C. cadet, the popularity of the Corps began to decline, but by this time it had fulfilled its mission.

Flying Officer M. A. Ellison commanded the unit from 1941-1944 when he was relieved by Flying Officer M. G. Mee, who remained in charge till the unit was disbanded in 1946. They were assisted by Flying Officer H. S. Gervis.

Instruction was provided in Navigation, Aircraft Recognition, Signalling, Mathematics, Drill, Shooting and various Trades for Ground Crews. There was also some gliding carried out at Yeovil, and Summer Camps, with flying, were held at R.A.F. and Fleet Air Arm Stations.

PLAYING FIELDS

The older field, containing the present Upper, Lower and "Young's," has been used by the School since the early days of Dr. Harper's Headmastership, but for nearly 50 years it was only rented by the Governors. In 1900 Canon Young, a former Headmaster, bequeathed to the School that portion of the field now known as "Young's" on condition that the Governors purchased the remainder, and in 1902, through the generosity of Old Boys and others, the whole field became the property of the School.

There is evidence that the School used part of what is now known as "Carey's " as early as 1899, but the whole of the ground was not purchased by the Governors until 1913. The levelling of this field was carried out by the ground staff, with the assistance of masters and boys, and was completed in 1928, when it was officially named "Carey's " in memory of one who as Master and Old Boy had done so much for the games of the School. In the same year the Carey Memorial Gates were erected on the north side of the field by the Sherborne Pilgrims, and Mr A. H. Trelawny-Ross purchased privately much of the fields between "Carey's " and the Railway to protect the amenities of the grounds : in 1932 part of this land was levelled to provide additional football grounds. To this period belong many other improvements, including the planting of trees, flowering shrubs and hedges and the building of a new Tuck Shop and motor shed. A very primitive building was replaced by the present pavilion on the old field in 1877. The clock turret, the gift of Old Boys, was added in 1913, and in 1930 the whole building was enlarged, the main room being refurnished in 1936. In 1927 Mr Howson Devitt (o.s.) presented a smaller pavilion for the new field, but this was unfortunately destroyed by enemy action in 1940. In 1947 two wrought iron gates were erected in place of the unsightly wooden one between the main entry to the fields and the pavilion. These gates are in memory of M. B. Elder on, a Master of the School and for many years in charge of 1st XI Cricket.

There are records of groundsman and cricket professionals from quite early times ; Parmenter, who must have come to Sherborne in the 'seventies did not retire till 1893. J. R. Painter (Gloucestershire) was the head professional from 1888 to 1893 and Tom Bowley (Surrey) from 1893- 1910: E. J. Freeman, (Essex), became head groundsman and cricket professional in 1911, and the levelling of " Carey's " and the present excellence of all the fields are largely due to his skill and unflinching devotion to the School. W. L. Creese (Hampshire) succeeded Freeman as cricket professional in 1947, and, on the latter's retirement at the end of the Summer Term 1949, also took over the position of head groundsmen.

SCHOOL GAMES

Details about the early days of School -games can be found under the appropriate headings. In general it is true to say that there has been a steady development in organisation, aimed at providing games for all boys without neglecting the special claims of the School teams. The introduction of Junior House matches in all games, the formation of an increased number of representative School sides, such as the 3rd xi, 3rd xv, Colts xi's and xv, and the large part now played by Masters in coaching, have all tended to widen the gate leading to future School teams. The introduction of a standard programme of games in 1927 helped to ensure the best use being made of the grounds available, and the system has been continued with variations to the present day.

Various Masters have in turn controlled the School games, and in particular the School owes much to the energy and care of G. M. Carey and his successor, A. H. Trelawny-Ross. In 1936 the duties of Master in charge of Games and Fields were split up ; each game is now the special care of one Master, while the general supervision of the grounds is the responsibility of the Master in charge of the Fields. The appointment of these permanent officials has been made necessary by the increased complexity of the Games organisation, involving much detailed work both during the term and in the holidays ; but the importance and value of the School captain and of House captains remains considerable because games are on a much bigger scale than formerly.

The Games Committee was first put on a definite basis in 1884. Its composition varied from time to time, but it remains a useful advisory body. The present committee, as reconstructed in 1943, consists of certain Masters, who serve at the request of the Headmaster, the Head of the School and representatives of the major School games, as appointed by the Headmaster, and one representative from each House.

CRICKET

Though there are no records of xi's before 1858, they certainly existed. "The wickets on which these early teams played may well have been "sporting," as it was not until 1858 that the first proper pitch was levelled on the present field on the initiative of R. J. Rawlinson, Captain of Games in that year, who was responsible for raising money for the purpose.

The first School fixture was against Clifton and was arranged to encourage that School in its infancy ; that match ended in a tie-the only recorded one in the history of Sherborne cricket-but it was not long before the pupil proved more than a match for the master, and in 1887 the fixture was discontinued, not to be resumed until 1938. In 1874 Sherborne played their one and only match at Lord's, and that a highly successful one against Rossa!! Since then many schools have figured on the School fixture list for longer or shorter periods, the Schools played at present being Clifton, Radley, Downside, Blundell's and Marlborough.

The system on which House matches are played has varied from time to time. At present, in both Seniors and Juniors, Houses are divided into two groups ; the members of each group all playing each other and the winners of the two groups meeting in the final.

FOOTBALL

In the early days of football at Sherborne something like Rugby and something like Association both seem to have had their day, and at one time the game played at Sherborne was apparently a cross between the two codes. The fact that there was only one organised game until 1864 seems to point to some lack of enthusiasm; but we read that in 1868 it was urged that football should be made a "School Game," as cricket already was. In this same year the "School" played the School House in a game with twenty players a side, a game which can be considered the forerunner of the Three Cock.

In 1872 Rugby rules were permanently adopted, and the first Three Cock under these rules was played in Match 1873. From 1916-1928 the Three Cock existed more in name than in fact, as only two Houses were represented against the School House. The present system, by which the Cock House is strengthened by one representative from each of the next two Houses, has justified the retention of the name Three Cock.

In Junior House Matches the numbers "barred" from participation varied at first in accordance with the numerical strength of the different Houses: to-day all members of the first three xv's are "barred." After one year's experiment in 1894 of a Junior Three Cock, the Two Cock was instituted in 1896: under this system School House played the two Cock Outhouses. The system was discontinued after 1937, and Juniors are now played on a knock-out system, School House playing in two sections.

"Thirds" for younger boys date from 1904, School House playing a team chosen from the best two outhouses in the final.

The first match with another School was against Cheltenham in 1893. Many changes in the fixture list have occurred since then: the Schools at present played are Qifton, Downside, Blundell's, Marlborough, Taunton and Wellington.

HOCKEY

In Canon Lyon's exceedingly interesting reminiscences of his time here as a boy (1836-45), which will be found in the Shirburnian for March and April 1912, there is this note : " Football was not, as far as I can recollect, played at all. . . . Our winter game was Hockey, but it was played in a rough and ready way which had no pretence of the scientific. We played then in a field called then 'Humpty-dumpty,' between the Bristol Road and Coombe." When football was started, probably not long after Canon Lyon left, it seems to have ousted hockey altogether. Whether hockey was played at all in the next half-century is uncertain, but since Canon Westcott's Headmasterhip it has come to replace football during the second half of the Lent Term, though for many years, as in Canon Lyon's time, it was played in a "rough and ready way."

No doubt there are still many Old Boys who can remember the mixed hockey (masters, ladies, and boys) of those spacious days, with the Headmaster attired in bicycling kit and a rat-catcher's cap shouting "Run, woman, run," and beating ladies over the shins with his stick. There was, too, a team of masters and boys-usually known as the "Red-legs"-which challenged, and sometimes actually defeated, quite competent foreign visitors, not indeed by the excellence of their hockey, but because their unconventional methods so disconcerted the opposing teams that they were entirely put off their proper game. At a very friendly tea after one such match, G. M. Carey--our worst offender-said to the visiting Captain : "Quite honestly, what do you think of us as a team ?" "Do you really want to know ?" asked the Captain ; and Carey said : "Yes, be quite frank about it." "Well," was the reply, "if you rriust know, we think you are the foulest team we ever met." That must have been the match in which Carey, among many other crimes, had charged the opposing goalkeeper, and incidentally one of his own side as well, right through the net.

The game continued to be played very unscientifically until the coming of R. S. Thompson as a master in 1922. He was commissioned to coach a game for senior boys-chiefly composed of members of the first three xv's-and a few matches were arranged with Dorset Clubs. Shortly after his arrival as Headmaster in 1927, Mr C. L. F. Boughey, who came from Marlborough, decided that hockey should be played throughout the School during the second half of the Lent Term. In that year the Shirburnian records several matches. Colours were first given in 1929 : but not to the whole team, partly because the standard of play was not very good and partly because the season was not long enough to enable the best side to be chosen with sufficient certainty. In 1931 the Headmaster presented a Challenge Cup for Senior House matches and in the following year the old "Point-to-Point Cup" was allotted to Junior House Matches. A few years later a second game was started, some School matches were arranged in place of some of the Club matches, and 2nd xi matches began. During the Second Great War Club matches disappeared altogether and were replaced by matches with other schools ; and a Colts game was started. Since the War the only Club matches have been against Dorset County "A" (an old fixture renewed) and the newly formed West of England Wanderers. School matches are played against Canford, Downside, Bryanston and King's School, Bruton, all of whom devote the greater part of the term to the game. The 2nd xi play matches against other School 1st or 2nd xi's and the Colts play three School matches. In 1947 a match was played against the Old Shirburnians for the first time and in 1948 two teams of Old Boys played against the School.

Finally, there has been a valuable increase in recent years in the number of masters willing to coach both School and House games. With the help of Mr M. M. Walford and Mr P. T. Currie, both Oxford Blues and Internationals, the standard of School hockey should improve throughout the School and the game continue to be popular, in spite of the rough grounds on which the majority have to play. This cannot be helped, for the nature of the subsoil and grass and the immediate transference from football to hockey make it impossible for the surface to be as smooth and regular as one could wish.

FIVES

An early nineteenth-century manuscript plan of the School buildings shows a "Ball Court" against the north wall of the Abbey "Slype," the side walls being formed by the west wall of the Box Buildings and the east wall of a building farther west. It may have been started just because of the convenience of the walls, but it was made into a proper court with specially prepared walls and floor, attractive enough, so we read, to be lent to the town for use in the holidays much as the Bath is lent to-day. Fives or "hand-ball" is a very ancient game, and it is possible that the court dated from the erection of the Box Buildings in 1697. These buildings were removed in 1855, though the court seems to have been preserved until in 1861 new courts were built on the site of the present Big Schoolroom. They were added to in 1869 and removed to their present position in 1874. The roof and back walls were added in 1906. The two additional courts in the Headmaster's garden, the gift of the Rev. W. J. Bensly (o.s.), were built in 1928.

SQUASH

Pseudo-Squash has been played for the past few years in certain Fives Courts, and a competition has been held since 1934, But two genuine Squash Courts now exist-one built in 1935 and one in 1937, the latter being presented by the Sherborne Pilgrims. This was destroyed in 1940 by enemy action.

LAWN TENNIS

Since 1905 lawn tennis has been a regular, though subordinate game. Five new courts were laid out in the "Cabbage Patch" in 1935, making eight in all; in 1940 these latter courts were brought under the plough. In 1948 three new hard courts were laid down on the same site and, in the same year, eight grass courts were provided in the part of the field alongside the Chinese Pavilion; these, though rough, nevertheless afford opportunity for a large number of the less expert, and more junior boys, to play.

ATHLETIC SPORTS

The first Athletic Sports were held on Lenthay Common in 1858. In the Shirburnian for April, 1926, will be found a letter from H. J. Rawlinson who, as Captain of Garnes, took the chief part in introducing them. No records survive of the early meetings except that F. M. H. Somerset was the most successful athlete in 1858, and that E. Falconer won the Mile in 1859. During the years 1931 to 1935 some of the events were decided on the relay system and the number of such events was increased in 1936. In 1938 a better Quarter-Mile track than had been possible on the 'Upper' was laid out on "Carey's." In the same year the time of the Meeting was changed to the end of the Summer Term and the present system, comprising both individual and relay events, was brought into being.

And for over seventy years the Bath has been the joy of the School without needing any major alterations. The beam, decayed with age, has gone : turf has replaced the shrubbery on the west : and the sides are smooth instead of rough. But the water, though now kept more transparent scientifically, is as cold as ever and just as delightful. It is a noble Bath that he gave us and thus inaugurated.

GYMNASIUM

In the Shirburnian for March 1871 a somewhat optimistic correspondent wrote : " Every Public School, or nearly so, has a Gymnasium. . . . Now, where is the Sherborne Gymnasium? You can see boys in the Courts stooping with their heads down to their toes, just as if they were looking for a long-lost sixpence, because they have no chance to remedy the defect. . . . There can be no excuse as to the expense, for who out of the great number in the School would not give something from his little all ? Hoping to see this great drawback soon remedied, I remain, etc." It is sad to record that neither the authorities nor the School responded at the time to this touching appeal and it was not till 1885 that the great drawback was remedied. In that year a temporary Gymnasium, 70 feet by 30, was built in the field north of the old Music House. It was called "temporary" when it was built, and it certainly looked it, and what remains of it looks so still, but it is all that we had until 1922. In that year, largely through the initiative of Mr G. M. Carey, the Governors built the present spacious and well-furnished and less undistinguished Gymnasium, incorporating into it part of the original structure.

The School usually sent representatives to the Public Schools Competitions at Aldershot from 1888 to 1908 ; they were placed third (equal) in 1889 and second in 1902. In 1910 the Swedish system of Physical Training was adopted, and five years later the present routine was introduced in which all the boys, in addition to one weekly period in the Gymnasium, with a certain amount of apparatus, have ten minutes physical training nearly every morning, the classes being in charge of trained boy instructors. There can be no doubt that this method has greatly improved the health and carriage of the School. Up till 1939, when the competition was discontinued on account of war, the School has several times won the Public Schools Physical Training Shield at the O.T.C. Camps, and was usually among the finalists. There is now an annual P.T. Competition in which each House has to parade all its members and, since 1942, a demonstration of physical training by 280 boys at Commemoration and a gymnastic display.

Sergeant-Major J. N. Taylor was Gymnastic Instructor from 1886 to 1912, and remained here to help with clerical work until his retirement in 1933. A familiar and popular figure with many generations of boys, he served the School well for nearly fifty years. Sergeant-Major Perry succeeded him in 1912, but left to rejoin the Army in 1915. Mr G. M. Carey, in addition to his other work, acted as Chief Instructor for the next two years, and was followed by Sergeant-Instructor T. Hoare from 1917 to 1923. In the latter year Mr M. E. K. Westlake (o.s.) was appointed as the first Physical Training Master in the School, and is still in office. In 1926 Sergeant-Major W. Norton came as Assistant Instructor to help with boxing, and Corporal J. Armstrong was added to the staff in 1935. In 1938 Chief Petty-Officer Titcombe took over the instructorship in the gymnasium in place of Norton who became School "Custos." Both Titcombe and Armstrong were called up in 1939 ; the former returned in 1945 and Sergeant Creese, who was eventually to become the School cricket coach, gave part-time assistance.

GYMNASIUM TEAMS

When these colours were introduced it was the practice not to give more than about half a dozen, and not as many unless a high standard was reached.

Asterisks indicate that those so marked represented the School at Aldershot in that year.

OLD SHIRBURNIAN SOCIETY

The Society was founded at a meeting of Old Shirburnians at Sherborne on 26 June, 1896. Its object is to keep Old Shirburnians in touch with the School and with each other. For this purpose an Annual Report is sent to all members in October and news leaflets in January and April. The Report contains news of the School and of Old Shirburnians, a statement of accounts and a list of the names and addresses of those who have joined the Society during the preceding twelve months; the old plan of publishing the names and addresses of all members annually had to be relinquished in 1939 and as yet it has not been found possible to reinstitute it. The Annual Meeting is held at Sherborne during Commemoration and an annual dinner in London, usually during the Christmas holidays. Subject to the approval of their Housemasters, practically all boys join the Society when they leave, and the present membership is about 3300. There is no subscription beyond the entrance fee.

In 1946 the Society completed the fiftieth year of its existence and the Annual Report for that year notes that the first list of members, published a year after the Society was founded, contained 264 names and that the membership now numbered 3100. It was also noted that 70 of the original members were still alive.

An "Old Shirburnian Scholarship Fund" was instituted in 1870 for the purpose of "establishing one or more scholarships at Sherborne School by the annual subscriptions of Old Shirburnians." For twenty years three scholarships were awarded annually; from 1890 two only were given. The management of this fund was transferred to the Old Shirburnian Society by a resolution carried at the first general meeting (June, 1897). Since the establishment in 1910 of a "Pension and Scholarship Endowment Fund," to which most of the subscribers were members of the Society, separate "Old Shirburnian Scholarships" have ceased to exist, but (mainly at first through the generosity of one member) the Society has been able to provide bursaries for the sons of Old Shirburnians on entering the School; there were usually three of these of £30 each annually. Of late years the number of boys receiving financial assistance has been rather greater and, owing to the increase in School fees and other economic causes, the amounts awarded in each case have been very materially increased; in the financial year 1948-1949 grants to the amount of £254 were authorised.

Mr H. R. King, who came to Sherborne as a Master in 1883, was the first Honorary Secretary, and so continued until his retirement in 1925. Throughout these years he must have known personally most of the members on the roll, and they were well content to leave the management of the Society almost wholly in his hands. Nowadays the affairs of the Society are managed by a strong committee. The Rev. Arthur Field succeeded Mr King as Honorary Secretary and carried on until 1938 when he was joined by Surgeon Rear-Admiral B. P. Pick as his assistant. In 1946 he retired and was succeeded by the Assistant Honorary Secretary.

SHERBORNE PILGRIMS

The Club was founded at the suggestion of G. M. Carey in 1923. Its objects are to recognize athletic talent, whether shown at School or afterwards, to promote cricket and football tours, to encourage all forms of athletics, and to keep members in touch with one another and with the School. Membership was originally open to all those who had been members of the xv or xi before the Club was founded. Since then new members have been elected annually, partly from boys just leaving School, and partly from Old Shirburnians who have distinguished themselves in any form of athletics since leaving, irrespective of whether they have been in any School team or not. Nomination for membership is solely in the hands of the Committee. In 1936 the Pilgrims presented to the School a Squash Court which was completed in 1937.

The Society was started in 1930 and now numbers over 150 members. A team is entered each year for the Halford-Hewitt Cup at Deal, and three meetings, including one at Sherborne, are held annually in addition to matches against club teams and other School Societies. The present Captain is T. R. Parry and the Hon. Secretary and Treasurer P. A. Turner, 4 Park Drive, N.W.11.

OLD SHIRBURNIAN LODGE, No. 3304

The Lodge owes its foundation primarily to the enthusiasm and energy of Col. Sir William Watts (o.s.). From among Old Shirburnian members of various Lodges in England and elsewhere he collected round him a body of fifty-two Founders who petitioned the Grand Lodge of England for a Warrant. This was granted on 10 April, 1908, and the Lodge was consecrated on 28 May, 1908, the Consecrating Officer being V W Bro. Sir Edward Letchworth, F.S.A., Grand Secretary, assisted by

VV. Bro.	P. Colville Smith, P.G.D.	as S.W.
W. Bro.	Lieut.-Col. Sir F. Graham Moon, Bt. , P.G.D.	as J.W.

In May, 1914, the Fourth Annual Festival of Public School Lodges was held at Sherborne, attended by about 150 Brethren, and presided over by the Earl of Shaftesbury, Provincial Grand Master of Dorset. It was followed by a Festival Service in the Abbey which the School attended, and a banquet in the Digby Assembly Rooms with the Earl of Radnor, Provincial Grand Master of Wiltshire, in the chair.

SOUTHWARK CADET CORPS AND SHERBORNE HOUSE CLUB

The Southwark Cadet Corps, comprising two Companies of the 1st (London)-Cadet Battalion, The Queen's Royal Regiment (West Surrey), has been closely associated with the School since 1921; the majority of the Officers, in days gone by at any rate, have been Old Shirburnians and the bulk of the subscriptions and donations come from past and present Shirburnians. Contact with the School is maintained, among other ways, by the Cadets' visit to Sherborne as the guests of the Staff and School at Whitsuntide, and at other times as the guests of the various Houses. Old Shirburnians and boys also visit Sherborne House periodically, where a room is available for visitors.

The cadets are South London boys between the ages of fourteen and eighteen, and in addition to the usual military training they are taught boxing, fencing, physical training, football, cricket, tennis, swimming and music. There is a library at Sherborne House, games room, showers, canteen and the other amenities of a boy's club.

It was Colonel L. W. Bennett (o.s.) who established the connection of the Corps with Sherborne. He was a founder-member of the Corps which was started at Southwark in 1889 at the suggestion of Miss Octavia Hill, and he was at one time in command of the Battalion. He retired from the Wardenship of the Club in 1947 after fifty-eight years service with the Southwark Cadets. In 1949 he was elected President in the place of the late Field Marshal Sir-Claud Jacob (o.s.) who had given his support and advice to Sherborne House for so many years. Colonel Bennett's courage and enthusiasm over more than half a century overcame all difficulties and his example is an inspiration.

Since the School's connection with Sherborne House many other Old Shirburnians have given devoted service to the Corps and Club, some of them living on the premises for the purpose. It would be invidious to single out any names. There is a General Committee, representative of Sherborne and Southwark, which meets annually under the Chairmanship of Brigadier J. J. Kingstone, and an Executive Committee consisting at the present time of Colonel R. D. Sherbrooke-Walker (Chairman), J. S. Streeter (Warden of Sherborne House and an officer in the Corps), A. S. Dandridge (Hon. Secretary), A.M. S. Baker (Hon. Treasurer), W. A. Wells, C. R. Hopwood, H. J. Stockley and L. M. Cooper.

Sherborne House is an inspiring undertaking and is doing a most important and valuable work but its successful continuance depends not only on financial support from the School and Old Shirburnians but upon a steady flow of young O.S.S. who are willing to give their personal service as officers in the Corps or workers at the Club.

Visits by Shirburnians, past or present, are always welcome and further information will gladly be supplied by the Warden.

INDEX OF BOYS

Similar symbols against Shirburnians of the same name indicate brothers but some very probable brothers (chiefly in the early periods) have been left unmarked when the relationship could not be proved.
